Large Crowds Attend Housing Show On Opening Day

FHA LEADER SPEAKER AT NIGHT SHOW

Valuable Prizes To Be Awarded This Evening And Saturday Night

CLOSE to a thousand interested residents of Orange county attended the first day's session of the Register Better Housing Exhibit in the Legion hall here yesterday afternoon and last night, a check of attendance records revealed today as the second day of the show promised to bring out even a greater attendance.

The program yesterday afternoon and last night was a huge success, from every standpoint. An amazing amount of interest in the program was evidenced from the moment the doors of the Legion hall were swung open.

Last night J. F. Burke officially opened the exhibit after an afternoon of preliminary inspection. He spoke a few words to the crowd and briefly reviewed the advantages which may accrue to the homemaker who uses the FHA in beautifying and making modern his home, or in seeking government aid to build a new home.

The speaker of the evening was W. F. Bonner, executive assistant to the associate director of FHA in Southern California, who urged his listeners to reap the benefits offered them through the Better Housing Program.

A highlight of the evening program was the awarding of a valuable prize to M. C. Williams, of 719 Orange avenue, Santa Ana, for the prize given to Williams was a water softener, offered by Knox and Stout.

No one will want to miss the exhibit program tonight and tomorrow night, for on these two nights the major prizes, amounting to hundreds of dollars in value, will be given away. The prizes will be awarded at about 9 o'clock both evenings.

The speaker tonight will be Robert Hatfield, secretary of the Orange County Builders Exchange and executive vice chairman of the Santa Ana FHA committee. Hatfield will speak at 7:30 o'clock, bringing to his listeners a message of vital importance in the FHA program.

A feature of the entertainment program tonight will be the appearance of the Arkansas Travelers, SEFA musical organization. Yesterday and this afternoon members of the "Talent" group, instructed by Vera Merilyn Getty, entertained with dances and specialty numbers. The

SUCCEEDS MACDONALD

Stanley Baldwin, who today was named prime minister for Great Britain succeeding Ramsey MacDonald, Baldwin was named premier by King George at the suggestion of MacDonald. The latter will be retained in the council, but will act in a more or less advisory capacity.

BALDWIN GIVEN BRITISH PRIME MINISTER POST

LONDON, June 7.—(UP)—Stanley Baldwin, staunch conservative and leader of the Tory party, succeeded James Ramsay MacDonald, former labor chief, today as Prime Minister of Great Britain.

The change of leadership was simple and efficient, MacDonald, in morning coat and top hat, visited Buckingham palace and drank tea with the King while he submitted his resignation. He stayed slightly more than an hour.

The King accepted the resignation and, on MacDonald's suggestion, called in Baldwin and offered him the premiership. Baldwin stayed with the King only 17 minutes, hurried to Downing street, the governmental center, and quickly formed his cabinet.

RULING ON PRORATE ACT NOT TO AFFECT VALENCIA ORANGE MARKETING AGREEMENT, SAID

THE RULING made by Superior Judge Emmett H. Wilson in Los Angeles yesterday to the effect that the state agricultural prorate act is not enforceable in its present form and the issuing of a preliminary injunction against its operation in the lemon and mild industries, will not affect the Valencia orange prorate, leaders in the citrus industry told The Register today.

Yesterday Judge Wilson ruled that the act is in conflict with the clause of the constitution giving congress paramount authority over interstate commerce, and also in conflict with the Sherman anti-trust law, insofar as it is applicable to the shipment of lemons.

Citrus authorities contacted by The Register, including Dr. D. D. Waynick, leader in the organization of the prorate; R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Farm Bureau; Paul Armstrong, general manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, and C. E. Earley, manager of the Mutual Orange Distributors, pointed out that the Los Angeles ruling is in regard to the state prorate act while the Valencia prorate is operated under the California-Arizona Citrus Marketing Agreement under the AAA, a national law.

In regard to the matter, Dr. Waynick said: "This injunction is only temporary. The case has not been tried on its merits yet. The decision made by the Los Angeles judge does not affect the Valencia agreement. It will delay the state lemon program, but that is all."

General Manager Armstrong of the Fruit Growers Exchange pointed out that the Exchange controls 99 per cent of the lemons

STATE INCOME TAX BILL IS PASSED BY SENATE 31 TO 2

One Fourth Of Federal Rate Fixed

Measure Returned to House For Concurrence Before Going to Governor

SACRAMENTO, June 7.—(UP)—Progress of California tax legislation hit another snag today when the assembly refused, by a vote of 52 to 5, to concur in senate amendments to the Chatters income tax bill.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 7.—(UP)—A state income tax at one-fourth the federal rate was voted by the California senate today.

Because the rate proposed by the senate is lower than the one-third levy approved by the assembly, the bill must return to the lower house for concurrence in amendments before it goes to Gov. Frank F. Merriam for his signature.

Senators approved the Chatters income tax bill, as amended, by a vote of 31 to 2. Senators Stow and McGovern dissented.

Under terms of the measure, the tax would become effective immediately upon final passage of the bill and would apply to all 1935 calendar year incomes of individuals, estates and trusts.

Exemptions would be identical to those in the federal income tax law, with the exception that state employees and public school teachers would be required to pay the state tax although they escape the federal levy.

It was estimated the tax would raise approximately $20,500,000 during a two-year period.

Assemblymen who fought for and passed a higher rate said they would contest the senate amendment which calls for a rate of only one-fourth the federal levy.

There was a general feeling, however, that after considerable skirmishing the lower house would concur in the senate amendments, accepting the compromise rate and sending the bill to the governor.

Originally, the senate favored a one-fifth rate, as recommended by the joint revenue and taxation committee, which would raise an estimated $17,500,000. The Chatters bill, as it left the assembly, was designed to return $25,000,000 or more biennially.

LATE FLASHES

SACRAMENTO, June 7.—(UP)—Another week will elapse before California's record-length legislative session is ended, observers agreed today when the assembly approved a resolution to recess at 5 p. m. Saturday until 10 a. m. Monday.

ST. PAUL, June 7.—(UP)—Volney Davis, Edward G. Bremer kidnaper captured last week in Chicago, was sentenced today to life imprisonment. He was brought into court with four others implicated in the $200,000 abduction.

ROOSEVELT DEFINES SOCIAL OBJECTIVE OF PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, June 7.—President Roosevelt today defined the social objective of his administration as increased security, happiness, greater distribution of wealth, recreation, and an honest chance for business to go ahead with reasonable profit.

Mr. Roosevelt's definition was given at his press conference in response to a question asked by Robert Cromie, editor of The Vancouver Sun.

"What would you say was the social objective of the administration?" he was asked.

The President replied: "That is a difficult subject to discuss, offhand. It would take an hour or two at least."

"The social objective, I should say, remains just what it was, which is to do what any honest government of any country would do; to try to increase the security and the happiness of a larger number of people in all occupations of life and in all parts of the country; to give them more of the good things of life; to give them a greater distribution, not only of wealth in the narrow terms of wealth but of wealth in the wider terms; to give them places to go in the summer time—recreation; to give them assurance that they are not going to starve in their old age; to give honest business a chance to go ahead and make a reasonable profit, and to give everyone a chance to earn a living."

"It is a little difficult to define it and I suppose this is a very offhand definition, but unless you go into a long discussion, it is hard to make it more definite. And I think we are getting somewhere towards our objective."

COLD WAVE IN NRA EXTENSION MIDWEST ADDS BILL WILL BE TO SUFFERING VOTED TODAY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 7.—(UP)—In the wake of devastating floods that took approximately 180 lives and caused $50,000,000 property damage, a cold wave today moved into the Missouri river basin.

Temperatures dropped to the lowest levels for this date in 50 years of weather bureau records. This was in sharp contrast to conditions in this area last year when, at the start of a record drought, the mercury touched the 100 degree mark.

Today there was frost in Nebraska. Snow fell at Wichita, Kansas. The mercury dropped to as low as 33 degrees at North Platte, Neb. The minimum here was 46. Flood waters from the Missouri and Kaw rivers and their tributaries spread out in huge lakes reaching up from the Missouri's mouth 500 miles to the north and west. Three quarters of a million acres of rich bottom land was inundated.

Last year at Lincoln the mercury reached 100 degrees at the start of the 1934 unprecedented heat and drought scourge. At Kansas City a year ago the reading was 99. Rainfall in this area last year up to this date totaled scarcely more than six inches. This year the total ranges around 19 inches. These low temperatures and abnormal rainfall prevailed throughout Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and Missouri. They broke marks of 50 years standing.

Meanwhile the flood crests on the Kansas and Missouri rivers passed this metropolitan center and swept down the recently dredged and barricaded Missouri channel. Only high dikes and levees saved the two Kansas cities from inundation in the lowlands. For four hours the crests of these two big streams coursed through the narrow channels here. At noon the water was receding.

COUNTY HEALTH OFFICER GOES INTO COURT IN ATTEMPT TO ISOLATE SCARLET FEVER CASE

COUNTY health authorities, refused permission by Tustin parents to isolate a child suffering with scarlet fever away from the home, today appealed to the courts in a legal proceeding unprecedented in Orange county.

Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, petitioned the court for an order directing the removal of Julia Linker, Tustin girl, from the home of her parents and 19 brothers and sisters, so that the spread of the contagion among other members of the family could be prevented.

Queen Will Be Selected At Second Night's Program in Fullerton

MORE THAN 30,000 residents of Southern California gathered in Fullerton last night to pay tribute to the Valencia Orange, the golden crop of Orange county, in the second annual Valencia Orange festival, sponsored by the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce.

The celebration and festival is continuing today and tomorrow, with many events of interest.

The colorful parade that opened the celebration marched along Spadra road under bright lights, and past the judges' stand at Wilshire and Spadra, where the various divisions were reviewed.

The parade included many bands, more than 105 commercial cars and entries, artistic floats, decorated cars, representing fraternal orders, educational groups, automotive division, house trailer division, industrial division, and equestrian division.

The prize for winning float was presented to the Robinson market, the entry representing a large market basket; Northern Orange County Citrus Exchange was awarded second prize, and the City of La Habra third, with special mention of the Orkins float, the Leonard B. West and eBauty Hour shop floats and cars. The education division prize went to the Fullerton Kayak club.

RICHBERG RESIGNS AS NRA CHAIRMAN

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(UP)—After being interrupted by an intruder who marched into the chamber bearing a white handkerchief on a stick, the House today voted to extend a powerless and skeletonized NRA until next April 1.

The intruder, speaking incoherently, gave his name as H. G. Franklin of Sugar Run, Pa., and called himself the supreme prophet of nature. Capitol police took him in charge.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(UP)—The house convened an hour earlier than usual today to jam through in a few hours a few brief resolutions continuing for 9½ months of skeletonized and almost powerless NRA.

Leaders counted on a heavy tide of democratic votes to sweep the "stop gap" measure through the house despite opposition from the American Federation of Labor and republicans.

Racing against time to prevent complete lapse of the NRA organization on June 16, the house was offered a rule limiting debate to two hours.

The 91-vote resolution would enable the president to maintain a skeleton force at NRA while he works out a permanent substitute program. In conformance with the supreme court decision, it strips the president of power to approve, impose or enforce codes. A section permitting voluntary agreements was retained, but leaders felt this authority would be of scant use.

At the White House, President Roosevelt said expiration of NRA codes meant expiration of all

SEVERE EARTHQUAKE FELT IN FORMOSA

TOKYO, June 6.—(UP)—A severe earthquake occurred today in Formosa, recently devastated by a quake.

The tremor was felt in central Formosa at 10:50 a. m. The village of Sanchow in Taiwan county, province of Datchu, was the hardest hit. The grammar school and market building were wrecked.

Known casualties up to 5 p. m. were five injured. Fifteen houses were demolished, 44 partly demolished and 400 damaged.

The region is remote from telegraph communication and the extent of the affected area was not known.

Deal Closed With New Oil Corporation for Huge Annual Royalty

A TAX-FREE community was envisaged for Huntington Beach today, with the closing of a deal with Hancock, Signal and Standard Oil companies, whereby Huntington Beach will receive a three per cent royalty amounting to more than $1,000,000 annually from 52 slant-line wells to be drilled into the rich ocean pool of shore, between Twenty-third street and the west city limits.

Reports that the new oil corporation to be formed between the three oil companies, would close a lease with the state of California for the 6000-foot ocean frontage, were confirmed by Mayor Tom Talbert today. The lease would extend drilling rights, under the bill now awaiting Governor Merriam's signature, as far into the ocean pool as the wells could be slanted.

The agreement with the oil companies was engineered by Mayor Talbert and Councilmen Lee Chamness and John Marion, who have spent the last week in Sacramento working out details of the plan. Under its terms the new corporation would pay, in addition to the 16 and 2/3 per cent royalty on the ocean drilling demanded by the state, a 3 per cent royalty on each well to the city of Huntington Beach.

DOUG FAIRBANKS ON WAY BACK TO U. S.

SINGAPORE, June 7.—(UP)—Douglas Fairbanks sr., and Lady Ashley arrived today on their way by airplane to Europe.

Fairbanks is going to Hollywood. He indignantly resented a question whether he intended to marry Lady Ashley. He refused to discuss any personal affairs, but said:

"I got a most disturbing wire from America and must return at once."

Fairbanks and Lady Ashley are accompanied by Miss Maureen Carey. It is believed his business in the United States concerns motion picture affairs.

JAPANESE SEEKING TO PUT FORMER "BOY EMPEROR" OF CHINA ON THRONE ONCE MORE

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(UP)—Four and a half years after her seizure of Manchuria and little more than a year since Henry Pu Yi was proclaimed emperor of Manchukuo, Japan today appeared ready to put the former "boy emperor" of China back on the dragon throne in Peiping.

Dispatches from Peiping, Shanghai and Tientsin describing renewed activity by the Japanese military indicate that again the mighty forces of Nippon's Kwantung army are prepared to march through the time-encrusted passes of the Great Wall and put the last of the Manchus back on the throne of their ancestors under the glittering yellow-tiled roofs of the forbidden city.

A dozen times since September 18, 1931, when Japan seized Mukden and from there extended her sway throughout China's northeastern provinces, the Chinese in North China have anticipated the day when another great chunk of China would be swallowed by the crack brown-clad troops of Dai Nippon.

Accounts of Japanese military moves south of the Great Wall appear to conform with a long anticipated program which will add all of eastern inner Mongolia to the emperor of Manchukuo's domain.

Should Manchukuo's influence be further extended Pu Yi or Kang Teh, as he is now known, will also the confidence of B. P. Clinard when he discovered that the latter's health was failing. Osterman also was accused of deliberately turning B. P. Clinard against his brother, by telling the former that Sanford had instigated the incompetency proceedings, and was waiting around for him to die, in order to get his money.

Osterman's activities were inspired, it was charged, by his desire to dictate terms of the will and get the appointment as executor. He had not acted as advisor to B. P. Clinard until the last few months of the Irvine rancher's life. It was claimed. Then, said the petition, he began advising Clinard and telling him he was handling his affairs without charge, in order to ingratiate himself.

The will, after making several minor bequests, left the huge estate to three sisters, Mrs. Dora Livingston, Mrs. Ida Bodenhamer, Lizzie Clinard and a niece, Nellie Clinard, of North Carolina.

The dancers also will appear tomorrow night on the program which will climax the show Clyde Musgrove's popular dance orchestra is lending color and gaiety to the exhibit with the rhythmic music played during the afternoon and evenings.

Interesting Displays

Comprehensive and interesting displays line the entire interior of the Legion hall, where the modern trend in house furnishings and construction is graphically shown. A complete electric kitchen and a complete gas kitchen are featured exhibits. The Register has spared no effort or expense in making this the greatest show of its kind ever held in this section. That the effort is successful is attested by the large crowds and the compliments received by The Register from James H. Berry, FHA representative here and other FHA officials.

FOUR INJURED IN TWO ACCIDENTS

Four people were injured in two wrecks yesterday, according to reports on file today with the California Highway Patrol here.

Worley Severne, 55, Charles Slife, 46, and Jack Kelly, 18, all of Long Beach were hurt in a head-on collision near Seal beach on the coast highway when their car, driven by Severne, was in collision with a machine driven by H. of one well's output, or all the oil proceeds from one well, and more than half from another. As wells previously drilled in that area have averaged 2000 barrels of oil daily, city officials today were jubilant over the prospect of an income of more than $2000 daily from the news wells, at the current market price of $1 per barrel or more than $1,000,000 yearly.

In addition to the royalty payments, the new oil corporation will pay the city a bonus of $25,000, which in addition to the bonus of $8000, will give the city a total of $33,000 cash in hand.

The deal will provide ample revenue for the purchase of city water and gas plants, and possibly a light plant, allowing for the provision of utility service to residents of the city at a very low cost. The city council has taken these possibilities under consideration, it is reported, and there is a movement on foot for a huge celebration to mark the final appendage of Governor Merriam's signature to the bill making this possible.

The new tide-land drilling bill will apply to the whole state of California, permitting drilling all along the ocean front by slant lines into ocean pools. It provides that wells whiststocked out from private owners can be drilled with the permission of the owners across or beneath whose lands the holes must be drilled. It was reported that the Pacific Electric Land company and the Huntington Beach company would adopt a generous attitude in dealing for permission to trespass east of Twenty-third street.

Supplementary results of the passage of the bill will give new hope for revenue to owners of lots in the town lot oil field. It was stated, and virtually insures the drilling of many new wells beneath the ocean, with a resultant employment for many more oil workers.

code provisions and of necessity a return to fundamental laws.

Mr. Roosevelt's definition was given at his press conference when he was asked whether the code expiration automatically had restored operation of anti-trust laws.

He explained in addition that he favored voluntary codes so long as they do not run counter to statute law. The nation, he said, was back to statute law and he was sworn to uphold that law.

He pointed out that he had no authority to waive statute law to permit the operation of codes that would be in violation of the anti-trust laws.

Democratic house whip Patrick Boland reported an abundance of votes to rush the resolution to the Senate in a few hours.

The A. F. of L. denounced the program as inadequate. The seven Republican members of the ways and means committee submitted a blistering critical report.

The minority charged that failure to enforce codes under the original act served "to encourage violation" that the NRA was merely an emergency measure anyway, and that the administration was negligent in not having ready a suitable substitute.

"The administration should have been prepared for this contingency," said the minority report, adding that "the uncertainty of purpose on the part of the present administration is bound to have a detrimental effect" on business confidence.

The Republicans proposed that the resolution be tossed aside and the Federal Trade commission investigate possibilities of trade agreements which would be contingent and enforceable on the basis of meeting original minimum NRA requirements.

We can't understand how a nation of Germans who have been living from hand to mouth can now be armed to the teeth.

An official announcement of the Baldwin cabinet included:

Prime Minister — Stanley Baldwin. Lord President of the Council—J. Ramsay MacDonald.

MacDonald will remain in the cabinet, but more or less in advisory capacity. Stanley Baldwin, stock leader of the conservative party, will take over the reins of the national union government, comprising representatives of all parties except the straight labor, until the general election next year. New faces are expected to appear in the next cabinet.

The retirement of the Scottish statesman, a man who rose from comparative poverty to leadership of a great empire and who figured in the greatest international events of these stirring times, was greeted with mixed emotions by the British public.

His former labor party associates, whom he deserted, scorn him. He is merely tolerated by the conservatives. But there are millions through the country who still revere him as a great leader.

MacDonald, in top hat and morning coat, drove to Buckingham palace from the prime minister's residence at 10 Downing street, where he repaired from the house of commons after making his final speech as prime minister. Commons adjourned until June 17 for the Whitsuntide recess.

Large crowds greeted him outside 10 Downing street and Buckingham palace, and he was sympathetically cheered.

Accompanied by the king's private secretary, Sir Clive Wigram, he was conducted to the king in the council chamber adjoining the king's workroom, and submitted his resignation.

MacDonald advised the king to send for Baldwin and commission him to form a cabinet.

Other members of the cabinet named by Baldwin are:

Home affairs—Sir John Simon, Liberal. Foreign secretary—Sir Samuel Hoare, Conservative. Air secretary—Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Conservative. War secretary—Viscount Halifax, Lord Chancellor—Lord Halsbury, Conservative. Chancellor of exchequer—Neville Chamberlain, Conservative. Colonies—Malcolm MacDonald, National Labor. Without portfolio for League of Nations affairs—(New post)—Anthony Eden, Conservative.

Dominions—James H. Thomas, National labor. First lord of the admiralty—Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, conservative.

President of the board of trade—Walter Runciman, conservative. Health—Sir Kingsley Wood, conservative. (Succeeding Hilton Young, was created a baron.) India office—Marquess of Zetland.

Labor—Ernest Brown, national liberals. Education—Oliver Stanley, conservative.

Agriculture—Walter Elliott, conservative. Lord Privy Seal—Lord Londonderry. (Leader in the house of lords.)

Secretary for Scotland—Sir Godfrey Collins, national liberal. First Commissioner of Works—William G. A. Ormsby-Gore, conservative.

Without portfolio—Lord Eustace Percy, conservative. Postmaster General—Major George Clement Tryon, conservative. (He will not be an actual cabinet member.)

A WORD OF COMFORT

You have learned to depend upon the presence, the inspiration and the fellowship of one who is now gone and you say that it is impossible to go on. This would be true if you were facing your task alone and in your own strength.

In every great emergency God calls us to attempt the impossible. When the proportions of our problem dissipates presumption and pride in our own strength, if we look to Him for power, we are amazed to discover that He never leaves us alone.

In cooperation with Him you will accomplish miracles.

LOGAN—At a Fullerton hospital June 6, William Logan, 55, father of Miss Edith H. Logan, instructor of athletics in Fullerton Union High school. He had been ill for some time. NEW OFFICERS OF S. A. LIONS ARE INSTALLED

Members of the Santa Ana Lions club and their wives enjoyed an unusually interesting program last night in connection with the annual installation dinner and party, held at the Ebell club, when C. W. Harrison, president, and other newly elected officers were installed to serve for the ensuing year.

Besides Harrison, the list included: Vic Walker, first vice president; Franklin West, second vice president; Burr Shafer, third vice president; E. M. Sundquist, secretary; John S. McCarty, treasurer; Andy Anderson, lion tamer; Dale Decker, tall twister; and Wilbur Shook and Earl Abbey, directors.

The installation was conducted by Elliott H. Rowland, first president of the Santa Ana club and past international director.

Kenneth E. Morrison, retiring president, recounted briefly the club's progress for the past year, including the addition of 28 new members, and making a total membership to date of 91.

Presentation of coffee sets to Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Carson Smith was made by Perry Schrock, while Morrison was presented with a past-president's pin by Smith, who was president of the club the previous year.

A program of unusually fine entertainment was presented by the entertainment committee headed by Joe Peterson following the dinner and installation, featured by presentation of Val Clark's prize-winning one-act play, "The Critic."

The cast included Joe Peterson, Burr Shafer, Frank Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. "Andy" Anderson, Franklin West, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Monroe, Mrs. Harold Yost and Ira Kroese.

Other numbers which were enjoyed by the large crowd present included vocal solos by Frank Pierce, magic by Frank Halla and company, with the special assistance of C. W. Harrison and Earl Abbey; accordion numbers by Clifford Langstaff of Pasadena and the Hughes family quartet from Los Angeles.

The annual barbecue and festival shoot sponsored by St. Anne's church of Santa Ana will be held on Sunday, June 23, at the Twenty-ranch gun club on Delhi road.

It was announced today by the Rev. Thomas Butler, in charge of the committee on arrangements.

Shooting for merchandise prizes will be held from 9 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, with skeet, trap and splatter board events being featured. Prizes, offered through the Altar Society, the Young Ladies Sodality, the Holy Name Society and the Altar Boys, will be given away during the afternoon.

Included on the program of events will be a tug-of-war contest, amusement booths, a musical program by the South Gate band, and the barbecue dinner, supervised by Tony Barrios.

The executive committee making arrangements for the affair is composed of the Rev. Thomas Butler, president; Anton Borchard, honorary chairman; J. Ogden Markel, general chairman; Paul H. Halliley, secretary; E. Leroy Flanagan, treasurer; Mrs. Harry Edwards, president of the Altar society; Allan Mandey, president of the Holy Name society, and Miss Jean Gaspar, president of the Young Ladies Sodality.

Dealia Bates, charged with drunk-driving on North Palm street, Anaheim, April 24, pleaded not guilty and not guilty by reason of being once in jeopardy. This trial was set for June 24 in department two.

Felix Avalos was granted probation for three years, in connection with a charge of possession of marijuana, on condition that he serve three months in the county jail.

Pearl M. Diggs, who passed fraudulent checks to Harley Babcock and Helen Babcock, of Tustin, was granted probation for one year.

Dorlado Merrez was placed on probation for five years in connection with a drunk-driving charge, on condition that he serve one year in the county jail and pay $250 to Arthur Nolder, of Los Angeles, for damage suffered by Nolder's car in a crash at Orange-thorpe avenue and the state highway, near Fullerton, May 12.

Ernest Howard, sentenced to a year in the county jail today by Superior Judge James L. Allen, who refused him probation for drunk-driving, has often been led into trouble by liquor, he admitted.

Three times he has been arrested for drunk driving.

"What was the matter the first time?" inquired the court.

"I was holding too much liquor," explained Howard.

"And the second time?"

"I got arrested then because I was driving too slow," Howard said simply.

"They caught up with me; if I'd been driving faster it would not have happened."

"I see you have been arrested 15 times in all, on various liquor charges. How did it happen?"

"O, various reasons. Once, for instance—"

"Well—"

"I was singing too loud."

"What were you singing? Sweet Adeline?"

Howard couldn't remember. But he was sure that he'd leave liquor alone if granted probation. Judge Allen was sure he would not.

Citrus Deal Of $150,000 In Escrow

The Santa Ana Realty Corporation today has a $150,000 citrus deal in escrow. The Register learned from John Kelly, of the company.

While the announcement was made the deal has been made and now is in escrow, the realtor would not reveal details of the deal until it comes out of escrow.

He did say, however, that the property is located east of Anaheim, between Anaheim and Placentia. The deal involves 50 acres of citrus property.

At the same time Kelly announced that his concern now has three other citrus deals in escrow, the three deals amounting to $35,000. The company yesterday put two town property deals in escrow, it was learned.

Kelly spoke optimistically of the trend in real estate purchases throughout the country, pointing out that many deals are being made now for investment. Sound investments in good citrus properties are being sought, he said.

Details of the deals which the company is making will be announced as soon as they come out of escrow.

LEWIS NAMED CHAIRMAN OF SEWAGE GROUP

J. E. Lewis, Yorba Linda, has been elected chairman of the Orange County Sewage Reclamation project committee to succeed O. E. Steward of Anaheim. It was announced today by R. D. Flaherty, executive-secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau following a meeting of the entire committee in Farm Bureau hall.

The committee made an important decision to adopt a definite program for the year. The group decided to operate the sewage reclamation plant here full time this summer to carry on the research work, directed at determining the feasibility and expense of reclaiming sewage water for irrigation purposes.

Full time operators will be in charge of the plant under the new program. The committee will try to complete the research work by September 1, and then operate the plant on a demonstration basis during October and November, planning to complete the project by the first of December.

Various groups interested in water throughout the county are represented on the committee. A special finance committee is working on a plan to finance the new program.

A tentative plan to expand the scope of the plant to actually reclaim sewage water on a commercial basis is being discussed.

Harry Richard White, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett A. White, of 318 South Birch street, died this morning at his home, following an illness of several weeks duration.

He had lived in Santa Ana for the past 20 years, following his birth in Faith, South Dakota, and was educated in the Santa Ana schools. Cause of his death was septicaemia following an attack of tonsillitis.

His father, well known Santa Ana realtor, is a former president of the Santa Ana Realty Board, and was at one time president of the California Real Estate Association.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Winbiger Funeral home, with the Rev. Mayne Knight, retired Methodist minister of Whittier, officiating. Pall bearers will be chosen from his associates here.

He is survived by his parents; two brothers, Robert and Ralph, and two sisters, Mary Alice and Vivienne, all of the Santa Ana address.

Oil Worker Hurt In Derrick Fall

R. S. McGoughy, 32, oil worker of 726 South Garnsey street, Santa Ana, was lying seriously injured at St. Joseph's hospital today as the result of a fall from an oil derrick at Huntington Beach yesterday.

McGoughy plunged 35 feet to the ground, it was reported, when he lost his balance in the E. K. Allison lease.

Apparently he fell to the ground on his left side, suffering broken ribs, broken wrist, elbow, heel, and internal injuries. Attending physicians, it is reported, believe he will recover.

CAST AND DATE FOR COMMUNITY PLAY REVEALED

Announcing the date of Tuesday night, June 18, for their presentation of "Enter Madame," in the Ebell auditorium, Santa Ana Community Players are meeting with much interest in their plans for reviving this play which has already been recalled as one of the outstanding successes of the association.

When a revival of a past play was first suggested, the matter of selection of the play was left more or less to public opinion. "Enter Madame" seemed to be the one which the majority of members and patrons of the association wished to see again. Early plans were to assemble as early as 1927 when the play was first presented in Santa Ana.

Unfortunately the majority of these Players have left the city, but the two major roles, those of "Madame," played by Mona Summers Smith, and "Gerald," played by Warren Fletcher, will be enacted just as they were eight years ago. It was thought at first that Miss Edith Cornell would be able to re-enact her fine characterization of "Bice," but Miss Cornell is planning an extensive summer trip as soon as school closes. So her place will be taken by Mary Batzen Steffenson.

Other members of the cast will be John Schrier as "Tamamoto," Lois Rees Auer as "Mrs. Flora Preston," Glenn Shaw as "John," Catherine Barr as "Aline," J. Leslie Steffenson as "Archimedes," John Colwell as "The Doctor," and Florence Brownridge as "Miss Smith."

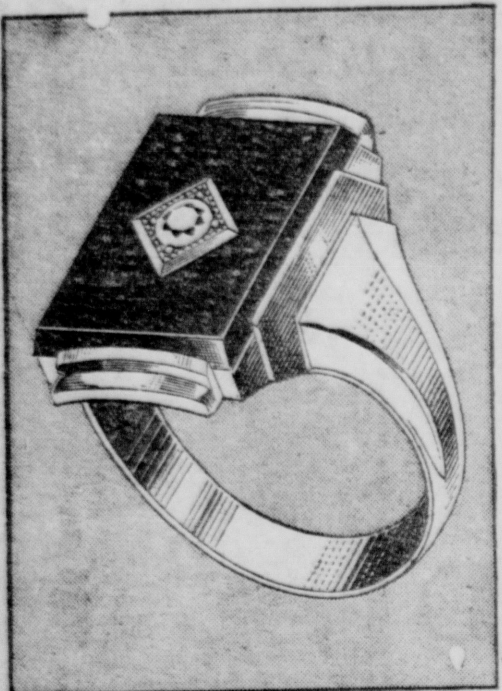

Although not a revival of the cast, this list of players will give the audience opportunity to see those who have scored in earlier productions, frequently in starring roles, re-enact a play that always remains as a bright memory of association success.

George Gerwin was director of the original Santa Ana cast, and his place is being filled by Gladys Simpson Shafer, present association director. Rehearsals are being held nightly in the home of Mrs. Charles Riggs, 901 Spurgeon street, and only the dress rehearsal on the night preceding production, will be held on the Ebell stage.

Popular prices will prevail all over the house on the night of the play, with no reserved seats, so it will be truly an application of the saying "first come, first served."

Probably one reason for the popularity of "Enter Madame" with Santa Ana audiences, aside from the excellence of its cast, was the fact that it's author (and star in the original New York production) was Gilda Varese, who had been associated many years ago with Ernest Crozier Phillips in "Madame Helene Modjeska," a company. Phillips is a charter member of the Community Players' association and its first director. George Gerwin, who directed "Enter Madame," had his first training under Phillips. Gerwin is now production manager for California SERA dramatic division with the entire state as his territory.

300-YEAR-OLD SKELETONS DISCLOSED IN EXCAVATIONS MADE BY SERA WORKERS

Archaeological excavations being made in Orange county under the SERA are bringing to light many important facts about the early residents of this territory, with skeletons being found which have been in the ground more than 300 years, it was disclosed today in a preliminary statement of the project which is under the general supervision of Mrs. Gladys Ashby.

Twenty SERA workers have been engaged in explorations of old Indian campgrounds and burial grounds which are to be found in many parts of the county, it was learned, and many artifacts have been unearthed in addition to the human skeletons.

Included in the artifacts are arrow heads, spear heads, pestles, mortars, tobacco pipes, shell beads, shell utensils, etc.

One of the most interesting artifacts found is a whistle about ten inches long, made of a human shin-bone, patched with asphalt and inlaid with bits of abalone shell.

Utensils Repaired

The use of raw asphalt as found along the beach in patching abalone shells used for materials when they became worn, as well as plugging up the natural holes in the shells, indicated some of the necessities of early days.

While many of the arrow and spear points were made of flint and other local rocks, a few obsidian points have been found, the material for which was brought in from Death Valley, Mojave, or other distant points, it is believed.

When the project is completed, the skeletons and artifacts will be turned over to the public of Orange county and will constitute the only public collection of Indian relics in Orange county, to be located at the Bowers Memorial Museum.

There are probably 500 to 1000 old Indian camp grounds in the county, extending from the coast to many high points in the hills, it is reported, and many articles taken from them are in the hands of private collectors.

Maps Prepared

A map of these early habitations is being made by John W. Winterbourne, Jr., as part of the archaeological project which is sponsored by the Santa Ana city schools. Herman Strand is foreman in charge of the excavations.

Fifteen skeletons, mostly badly decomposed, have been found which are believed to be more than 300 years old. They were buried, it is believed, long before the Spanish came this way, inasmuch as no artifacts of metal or glass were found which would indicate the Spanish influence.

Jasper and obsidian arrow points, beautiful arrow points, tubular tobacco pipe made of steatite, and such articles were found in burials which are presumed to be males. Abalone dishes, plugged and patched with asphalt, and also the asphalt lining of a basket, were found in burials which are presumed to be females.

In most cases, the position of the skeletons indicates that a short, narrow ditch was dug, probably with rock oyster shells as tools, and the body crammed down into the hole sideways, as the arms and legs are in flexed position, with the head often tilted to one side. This form of burial was used, it is believed, for two reasons, one a superstitious reason and another the Indian's laziness which induced him to dig a small burial place as possible.

The Sundine company, orange juice firm, is building a series of fruit storage bins costing $500 in their plant at 1644 East Fourth street, according to a building permit taken out yesterday.

Mrs. P. A. Stanton, wife of State Highway Commissioner Stanton of Anaheim, who was stricken suddenly ill Wednesday night, is in a serious condition at St. Joseph's hospital.

Doctor Told Her How To Lose 17 Pounds of Fat

Gossips Peeved

Mrs. Robert Hickey of Roseville, Calif., writes, "My doctor prescribed Kruschen Salts for me—he said they wouldn't hurt me in the least. I've lost 17 lbs. in 6 weeks. Kruschen is worth its weight in gold."

Mrs. Hickey paid no attention to gossips who said there was no safe way to reduce—envious women who don't like to see others youthful slim. She wisely followed her doctor's advice. Why don't YOU? Get a jar of Kruschen today (lasts 4 weeks, and costs but a trifle) and if you don't lose 12 lbs. and feel years younger and healthier—money back. Simply take half teaspoonful in cup of hot water every morning (tastes fine with juice of half lemon added).—Adv.

Bail was placed at $2000 on the elder Lenz on a charge of receiving stolen property. He did not post it and will be confined to the county jail until his hearing June 13. Earl Lenz charged with burglary, was remanded to juvenile court. He is charged with taking guns, watches and $75 in cash.

HERE'S ONE FOR THE BOOK; YOU FIGURE IT OUT

Two men, alone, two 1934 Ford V8 two-door sedans, are driving along the highway.

The car in rear drives up alongside the one in front, and the two cars crowd over to the right of the highway.

The driver of the right-hand car gets hurriedly out of his machine, lifts out a leather suitcase, carries it into the orange grove adjoining the road.

He deposits the suitcase under a tree; takes the Panama hat off his head and lays it quickly on top of the suitcase. Then he walks swiftly back to his car, waves to the other driver, and both cars proceed on down the boulevard.

Such an incident took place last evening at 5:10 o'clock, and sheriff's deputies were today trying to find out what it was all about.

The incident was reported by Frank Ybarola of Norwalk, who met the two cars as they came to a stop, and looked back to see the suitcase deposited under the orange tree, about 200 yards this side of the Los Angeles county line on the Norwalk-Norwalk highway.

Deputy Sheriff R. E. Steinberger and Frank Dawson, assigned to the case, brought the suitcase to the sheriff's office, and in it found a suit of men's clothing with New York tailor's label and the name, "James E. Gallagher," a safety razor, shirt, tie, etc., and a pint of whiskey. On the end were stamped the initials "J. E. G." in black paint.

Were the cars stolen? Who is Gallagher and what happened to him, if anything? Where was the crime committed, and how serious a crime was it?

These are some of the questions the officers would like answered.

LOCAL CANADIAN VETERAN RECALLS RECENT VISIT OF FAMOUS BRITISH SOLDIER

Pleasant memories of Viscount Byng, the hero of Vimy Ridge, remain in Orange county, which the great British general, visiting here a few weeks ago, declared to be "one of the most beautiful places in the world."

Perhaps the proudest man in emergency operation yesterday at Orange county then was Charles Ketchen, who fought with the Canadian troops under Byng in France, and who now lives on the Marcy ranch, near Tustin.

Ketchen was proud, and why not? The general made a personal call on the buck private! Not just a how-de-do, my man, and goodbye. A real visit, two soldiers hashing over old times.

That action, said to be typical of their former commander, explains why the Canadian vets of Southern California are mourning the death of Byng, former governor-general of Canada, as well as war hero, who succumbed to an emergency operation yesterday at his home in Essex, England.

Viscount Byng was a visitor to Orange county at the time of his stay in Southern California, being the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Marcy on a tour of the Marcy ranch, Lemon Heights and the principal orange grove sections of the county.

He was much struck with the scenic aspects of this section and exclaimed that it was one of the most beautiful and delightful places he had ever seen. He assured his host and hostess that he had enjoyed the day here as much as any his party had spent in Southern California.

County Vegetable Growers Attend Pomona Meeting

A committee representing the Vegetable Growers association of Orange county left this morning for Pomona, where they were to attend a meeting this afternoon of the Southern California Vegetable grower associations.

The meeting has been called in order to compare by laws of the newly formed marketing groups, in an attempt to secure a uniform set up in all the county groups.

It is felt by vegetable department leaders that an all-Southern California marketing arrangement will have to be made eventually, and today's meeting has been called to clear the way for a later action which would unite the associations.

In the group attending the meeting from Orange County are Clarence Brown, chairman of the association; Ralph Mitchell, of Tustin; C. J. Cogan, of Irvine; S. Murakoa, of Westminster, and R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau.

FARM BUREAU GROUPS SEEK LEGISLATION TO CONTROL USE OF UNDERGROUND WATERS

The movement by farmers throughout the state to control the use of underground water was given added impetus at yesterday's meeting of the board of directors of the Orange County Farm Bureau, when a request was received from the Riverside County Bureau asking support of the local bureau for Riverside county's attempts to secure control legislation.

The matter was referred to the water committee, of which J. E. Lewis is chairman, for study and recommendation. It is the plan of the local bureau, according to R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary, to attempt to secure legislation which will insure underground water privileges for local users.

It is hoped to secure a legislative program which will control the underground supply in much the same manner as riverflow waters are now controlled, restricting its use to cultivated land.

R. J. McFadden, representing the water committee, reported on a recent meeting between members of the committee, the Orange county board of supervisors, and representatives of gun clubs, regarding the use of water by county pumpers, and attempts to regulate it. The committee was instructed by President J. W. Crill to continue its work along this line.

Drainage Waste

Crill also called the attention of the bureau to the large amounts of water said to be wasted, through drainage ditches. This water is said to be suitable for reclaiming. Estimated averages for the waste flow in one ditch are between 300 and 400 inches.

Mrs. L. A. Bortz, representing the home department of the bureau, reported that 600 signatures had been secured to petitions of the department addressed to the board of supervisors, asking that a home demonstration agent for the county be appointed. The support of the Farm Bureau to this move of the home department was promised, and the matter will be taken up with the supervisors, presumably about July 1. The work of such an agent, it was explained, would consist of part time demonstration work before girls' 4-H clubs in the county, and demonstration in country home beautification, efficiency and economics.

The Bureau also voted to assist the Orange County Vegetable Growers association in its formation, by advancing funds for that purpose on a loan basis. The new marketing association was formed about a month ago, by members of the vegetable department of the bureau, and county growers.

C. of C. Representatives

The agricultural committee of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, together with President W. H. Spurgeon, attended the meeting as an expression of the Chamber's good will toward the bureau. Spurgeon promised the active interest and support of the chamber in the Farm Bureau program.

Vice President L. A. Bortz, in reporting on the recently inaugurated system of scoring county Farm centers on their respective meetings, said that the type of Farm center meeting had been greatly improved under the system. Reports on the judging and scoring will be released at the end of the fiscal year.

Reports were made concerning Farm Bureau Day at the San Diego exposition, to be held July 15, by R. J. McFadden. The Summer Regional Farm bureau meeting will be held in San Diego on that date, it was announced. E. A. O'Neal, National Farm Bureau president, will be the featured speaker.

Farm Bureau directors from throughout the state will hold their annual summer meeting at Idyllwild, in Riverside county, June 27, 28 and 29, it was announced. A representative group of local directors will attend the meeting.

The Western States Farm Bureau conference will be held at Fort Collins, Colo., July 8, 9 and 10, it was announced. Secretary Flaherty stated that this conference would be of special significance to Orange county growers, as it will deal with the status and development of agricultural control problems, such as the future of the AAA and other distributing agencies. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace will be the main speaker of the conference. Flaherty was instructed to present the matter of attending to members of the Bureau, and to attempt to secure a delegation from this county for the meeting.

A. H. Heim was seated as director from the Foothill Farm center, as the first to be seated under that center's plan of having a different member attend each meeting of the Farm Bureau board of directors.

The lad who always had difficulty describing the shortest distance between two points grew up to be a taxi driver.

54 COSTA MESA SCHOOL PUPILS IN EXERCISES

COSTA MESA, June 7.—Fifty-four pupils of the intermediate schools were given certificates of graduation from the eighth grade before a crowd of over 500 persons in the Newport harbor union high school auditorium Thursday night following a program of songs and addresses. Henry Abrams, principal of the school, presented the class to George Healey, clerk of the school's board of trustees, who made the presentation of the certificates.

Members of the class, Shirley Attridge, Christine Baird, Burns Duarte, Warren Flint, George Hill, Midori Kato and Doris Mellott, received special citations for perfect attendance at school for the entire year and Lois Dittmar, Doris Mellott, Gladys Edick, Midori Kato, Eudell Sain received certificates as honor students in the class. Doris Mellott and Burns Duarte received the American Legion medal for high standing in citizenship. George Grupe, adjutant of the Legion post, made the presentation. The class teachers are Mr. Maude Davis, Mrs. Maud Kennedy, Mrs. Clara McNally and Miss Elsie Morrow.

The Rev. C. D. Hicks of Santa Ana, speaking on the theme, "Young Americans," gave the main address on the program. Abrams also spoke briefly to the class and their parents.

The Rev. W. I. Lowe, pastor of the Community church, gave the invocation and benediction. The Girls' Glee club, composed of members of the graduating class, sang "Flying Clouds," "Starry, Starry Song," "Brahms." They were directed by Mrs. Allos Owen, with Miss Joyce Mackintosh accompanying at the piano. Mr. Abrams sang two solos, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Harriett Abrams.

The class roll included Natalie Alcala, Tessie Anderson, Shirley Attridge, Jean Bailey, Christine Baird, Cella Beaudette, Agnes Cover, Lois Wittmar, Betty Dyckman, Gladys Edick, Ruth Eisman, Ida Focht, Irene Hallamore, Frances Higuera, Bernice Hills, Midori Kato, Glennia Lorton, Joyce Mackintosh, Alice Miller, Josephine Muniz, Alice Miller, Eudell Sain, Frieda Song, Serena Stevens, Virginia Thompson, Laura Van De Walker, Ruth Wade, Barbara Walton, Ruth Whitney, Verna Willits.

Miss Lindsey donned a Turkish costume and exhibited several pieces of embroidery and handloom work of Turkish women as well as many pictures depicting schools and elsewhere. A newspaper published in Stambul using the English letters, the Arabic letters having been entirely discarded in the schools there, was exhibited.

Mrs. J. D. Neuls presided at the business meeting and announced efforts are being made to secure Ramona Salazar, missionary in Mexico City, as the speaker for the July meeting. Devotions were led by Mrs. R. W. Spensley. A letter of appreciation for clothing received was read from the Flint-Goodrich hospital in New Orleans, an institution for Negroes.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

CRACKED

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Don't expect any mad rush to make good the president's call for a streamlined constitution to replace the horse-and-buggy vehicle. The White House is distressed at the adverse reaction to its appeal. Nobody is yet marching on Washington. The official clipping bureau sends over a batch of bad news daily. Sotto voce comment on Capitol Hill is bitter.

Such diverse advisers as Attorney General Cummings and "Young Bob" LaFollette counsel caution. They argue against precipitate presentation of stopgap legislation or constitutional amendment. Cloakroom polls condemn presidential scouts that the present senate would refuse to submit any kind of amendment to the states. Crystallization of the anti-court issue would block enactment of the president's pending program. Congress would seize upon it for its filibustering possibilities.

Political lines have cracked completely, forbidding 1938 dissolution. Senate Democrats are revolting against the thought of federal control. Even progressives are divided. Candidate Vandenberg rejoices at the prospect of pitting home and mother, the flag and the constitution against the New Deal.

STRATEGY

Mr. Roosevelt spoke out against the NRA decision before he proceeded to fight for some less appealing figure might lead the charge. He has asked loyal Democratic senators to refrain from formal discussion on or off the floor. He thinks the issue too momentous to be discussed in a casual speech. His aides have mapped a tentative plan—subject to change, of course. Under it the president will dramatize the issue of necessary federal control in a carefully worded message to congress. He will ask for a public discussion around the cracker barrels and town halls. It is the same strategy he adopted to generate popular pressure for the social security bill.

That method is meant to keep alive the issue through the next congress and the campaign. If reelected, the president will regard it as a mandate for his philosophy. He will apply "heat" to congress, leaving it to the people to influence legislatures. Long-headed politicians concur in this slow-motion program. So do those who think the constitution ought not be changed in flutery, jittery style.

SLATED

Unostentatiously the president presses his charge against the court. His first act after the NRA smash-up was to notify senate leaders that he wanted passage of the Guffey bill for nationalization of the coal industry. It was off the "must" list until Chief Justice Hughes put it on.

Messrs. Guffey and Wagner are revamping the measure to meet the court's objections. They are writing a specific code into it and delegating definite power to a specific agency. They are eliminating interstate mines from its jurisdiction. These consist of "captive mines" whose product goes to a nearby factory. They make up about 18 per cent of the industry. Andrew W. Mellon has quietly entered the struggle, perhaps taking his cue from his erstwhile boss, Herbert Hoover. Some of Mr. Mellon's coal operators originally favored the bill. Within the last few days they have turned against it. They dread most its companion bill—the Wagner labor disputes measure, which is also slated for passage to stave off the threatened soft coal strike.

REBUTTAL

These measures symbolize legislative defiance of the court. Some lawyer-senators contend that they cannot be cleaned up into constitutional shape. "Never mind that," reply. "Never mind that. Let's send them right up to the supreme court. Then we will get a legal as well as a political test."

The nine jurists will hear some sharp criticism and joshing when the Guffey bill comes up for debate. Ex-Judge Wagner will read decisions in which the court held that coal mining was subject to federal regulation because of its interstate character. Sympathetic senators will elaborate the president's threat that the court feels kinder toward property rights than it does toward human needs. Mr. Wagner will quote Mr. Hughes' opinion in the Appalachian coal case:

"When industry is grievously hurt, when producing concerns fail when unemployment mounts and communities dependent upon profitable production are prostrated, the wells of commerce go dry."

CRISIS

Some Democratic legalists advance a logical theory to explain and soften the controversy and provide the Democrats with a political out.

These laboratory lawyers point out that the court does not always uphold its own "obiter dicta" in future decisions. And it was "obiter dicta" which blew up the New Deal. According to this view the nine jurists have grown tired of stretching the constitution to meet modern social and economic changes. So what they sought to do was to warn the administration that it was acting illegally under the constitution as written, and to precipitate a crisis necessitating a popular verdict.

Friends of certain liberal jurists say that no other interpretation explains their stand. You will hear a lot on this from the Democrats. This argument rationalizes the presidential demand for constitutional changes unless the court spikes it—and the court must hold its tongue in a purely political squabble.

STRIKES

Direct actionists in the labor movement—John L. Lewis and his UMW associates—are jubilant these days. They contend that recent events demonstrate the soundness of their reliance on field organization rather than political alliances. They are discreetly laughing up their sleeves at Bill Green of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Lewis never placed all his eggs in the White House basket or in NRA odds. He called a soft coal strike before the court wiped out the admittedly beneficial bituminous code. But Mr. Green relied upon legislation and a friendly soul in the White House. He deprecated recent strikes, notably the automobile walkout. He compromised. New developments beyond the administration's control have forced him to call a council of war at Washington. He echoes Lewis in threatening strikes.

It was Lewis, however, who forced the White House to swing behind the Guffey and Wagner bills. The constitutional crisis is likely to affect labor's attitude toward capital as deeply as it has the relationship between government and governed.

BEREFT

In rebuking the executive arm of the government the supreme court has revived congressional esprit de corps. Their new freedom does not show in excessive legislative independence—they still await a test of Mr. Roosevelt's popularity and political shrewdness—but it appears in their walk and talk. Corridors resound with a chorus of "I told you so's."

Even in the obedient house two administration favorites are sunk. It is improbable that the TVA or AAA amendments can be passed at this session. House committees hitherto favorable to validating TVA's right to sell power to municipalities are against it publicly. AAA proposals to license middlemen are temporarily out of doubtful constitutionality. It is in the house that the president has held his grip. Its great White House majority has acted as a check on senate backsliders. Should the Byrns-Bankhead-O'Connor legions fall him Mr. Roosevelt will be bereft of any backers except the Tugwells and Richbergs.

NOTES

Federal bureaus held down by congress are handing in fancy plans for big spending, to help get rid of that four billion... Congress throws up its hands at the idea of formulating codes for interstate industries—too big a job... Definition of "unfair practices" keeps federal trade commission busy year after year... Business men say their legal advisers are warning them to play safe against trade commission surprises... Railroad unions are exchanging views—they're in an ugly mood.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

WEAKENED

NEW YORK, June 7.—John Lewis has called a soft coal strike for June 16 because he felt he had to—not because he wanted to. He was forced by the communist miners' union. Come months back he held off a strike because he feared they would cash in on it at his expense. Reports that they were planning a strike of their own made him change his mind. If the radicals had acted and he had, he stood to lose a sizable flock of his restless membership to them. And if by chance their direct action was successful while he stayed on the sidelines he would have been in danger of having his carefully built union go to pieces completely.

There's no doubt that the United Mine Workers can tie up every mine in Pennsylvania if they choose. The operators in that region admit it and are not disposed to fight aggressively. But it's questionable whether the strikers can do as well in Kentucky,

Virginia and West Virginia. Those mines were never unionized until NRA came along and union discipline isn't so firmly established. The ironic angle of coal strikes is that they are invariably most successful where wages and working conditions are best and most likely to flop where labor is worst off.

Lewis is shooting for the 30-hour week—which he won't get. Most operators would sincerely prefer to quit the business permanently. But he probably can gain enough concessions to dress up as a victory. Last year was the first prosperous period for the soft coal industry in eight years—admittedly due to the artificial high prices maintained by the code. This prosperity went to the heads of a number of companies and they got generous with dividends. Now they wish they hadn't. Their freehandedness to stockholders greatly weakens their arguments against union demands.

PAVING

Passage of the Guffey coal bill is the one hope of averting a strike. This bill—which may turn out to be the cornerstone of New Deal reconstruction—has had very little public discussion. It would set up a bituminous coal commission with sweeping powers to fix wages, labor conditions and prices. This would satisfy the unions. It would also have authority to spend $300,000,000 buying in marginal mines and taking them out of production—the plowing-under theory applied to coal. The buying would be financed by a bond issue to be subsequently retired out of taxes on coal. This feature appeals to a lot of operators who figure limitation of output is their only salvation.

The bill is being revised to get around the implications of the NRA decision. Coal mining is declared to be interstate commerce (the railroads use coal, don't they?) Further it is declared to be an industry vital to national defense and therefore properly subject to federal control—a new and significant approach. Still further, the proposed commission's powers are drafted in close parallel with those of the interstate commerce commission—whose constitutionality has long been established.

You see the point. If the Guffey bill is enacted and stands up in the courts—and competent lawyers believe that it would—it paves a fresh avenue for broad federal regulation of industry.

SUGAR

There were two reasons for the turn-around whereby the French chamber of deputies gave readily to Bouissou what they denied Flamin. One was Bouissou's skill in getting stubborn political parties to help form his cabinet and thereby share his responsibility. The other was fear of an unstoppable panic if a parliamentary stalemate persisted. The makings were there and showed too clearly for comfort.

The French politicians are in a peculiarly awkward spot. They must do one (or more) of three things to save the budget—devalue, impose heavy new taxes or cut the pay and jobs of government employees. Any one of the three is currently tantamount to suicide so far as the reaction on the voters is concerned. Hercules could be pardoned for shirking a task on those terms.

Joseph Caillaux—the new finance minister who believes in rapprochement with Germany—talks gravely about maintaining the gold parity of the franc. There's a general impression that this will be done. Bunk. The fundamental economic situation is unchanged. Caillaux tips his one hope with his call for an international stabilization conference. If he can get stabilization—with Germany included—it will sugar-coat the pill of moderate devaluation enough to make the nation swallow it with little protest—and that's the object.

HELP

Utility lawyers have dug up what they figure is convincing proof of the unconstitutionality of the holding company bill. How, they inquire, can the federal government arrogate to itself the right to order the dissolution of corporations whose existence is duly authorized by state charters? This ties in pretty well with the growing states' rights issue and people rate it a most promising defence.

Utility men are also pleased with publication of that section of the Roper advisory council's report which deals with the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. They especially liked the council's insistence that wide geographical distribution of operating properties is desirable. Recommendations for regulation tally with Wendell Willkie's speeches and are acceptable to the better class companies. There's no way of telling how much attention congress will pay to the council's views. But the power leaders are confident the report at worst can do no harm and might help the ma lot—especially as it is temperately and calmly phrased.

PREPARING

Joe Kennedy does want to quit his job as chairman of the securities exchange commission but it looks as if he will have to stick around for quite a while. The possibility that the commission's authority will be challenged in the courts alters the picture a lot. It's an open secret that FDR wants Kennedy's hand on the helm if stormy weather develops—and insiders understand that Joe will stay in harness as long as his chief requests it. The SEC is preparing for trouble by adding new legal talent to its staff.

RESPONSIVE

New York sharps predict that any constitutional amendment to enlarge the federal government's powers over industry and agriculture will be handled by state conventions and not state legislatures. Conventions would be more responsive to the popular will and far less likely to be affected by the blandishments of expert lobbyists.

ASSAILANT OF GIRL REPORTER STILL UNKNOWN

Identity of the person who is alleged to have slashed at Miss Angela McCann, Register correspondent at San Clemente and San Juan Capistrano, inflicting a wound upon her chest Wednesday night, was still unknown today.

A cheap paring knife, found in the gutter near the point where Miss McCann reported she was attacked, was examined for fingerprints by the sheriff's identification bureau, but without result, it was reported. The knife handle and blade were devoid of prints.

The knife, it is said, was brand new and of the type available in any five-and-ten store. It was clean, except for a blood stain on the blade, investigating officers reported.

The alleged attack occurred 12 days after the Register correspondent had received an anonymous threatening letter advising her to "cease certain contacts" among San Juan Capistrano school authorities.

PROGRAM BY NEGRO TENOR IS PRAISED

Luther King, noted tenor, presented a program that was enthusiastically received by an audience of 150 at the First M. E. church last evening.

The program was presented undisturbed by the young Peoples department, of which Miss Florence Ulrich is president. Miss Ulrich and Miss Thelma Glascock handled arrangements.

Four groups of songs were rendered by the singer, ranging from the classical to the religious, and including negro melodies and spirituals. "Water Boy," "If From All My Heart," "I'm Glad Trouble Don't Last Always" were a few of the selections.

King, who will appear in a program at the Hollywood Bowl soon, has been invited to make a return appearance in Santa Ana within the next several months.

RELEASE OF RICH CUBAN IS EXPECTED

HAVANA, June 7.—(UP)—Hope for release of Antonio San Miguel, reputed to be Cuba's second richest man, was expressed today as his agent sought to contact the men who abducted him and held him for $250,000 ransom.

Police discouraged inquiries regarding him, fearing apparently that the aged man might meet with harm and the kidnappers would fear to negotiate.

San Miguel, aged utilities magnate, was kidnapped with his chauffeur, valet and bodyguard from his automobile Wednesday, the valet, Simon Martin, was released with the ransom money but failed to make contact with the kidnappers at an arranged rendezvous.

Bassett asked $150 for the smashed turkey eggs, which he valued at 15 cents each. He demands $1500 for his own injuries, $170.74 for damage to his car and loss of its use.

MANY VISIT NEW NORGE SHOP HERE

Large crowds attended the recent opening of the E. L. Lucas Home Appliance shop, at 302 North Broadway, predicting a successful future for the new store. Lucas is the former manager of the Montgomery Ward store here.

The Lucas shop features the entire line of Norge products, and an interesting demonstration of Norge Electric refrigerators was made at the opening. A cut away replica of the Norge compressing machinery was installed and the simple action of the three moving parts created considerable interest. It is the simplicity of its operation, Lucas said, that makes the Norge refrigerator so economical to operate.

Also on display at the shop are the Norge Autoblitz washers and ironers.

MOTHER, SON DIE ON GALLOWS AT DAWN

GEORGETOWN, Del., June 7.—(UP)—A mother and her son were executed on the same gallows at dawn today.

They were Mrs. May H. Carey, 55; her eldest son, Howard, 27. They murdered Mrs. Carey's brother, Robert J. Hutchins, for his insurance. Another of her sons, James, 23, is serving life. He was an accomplice. Her third son, Lawrence, 21, is in jail for burglary.

The executions took place in the yard of Sussex County Prison where Lawrence is confined.

From the trap, Mrs. Carey called out in a loud voice: "My way is clear, I have nothing else to say."

President Seeks Air Regulation In Message Today

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(UP)—Temporary coordinated regulation of air, highway and coastwise water transportation by the federal trade commission was recommended by President Roosevelt in a special message to congress today.

The president expressed hope that the next session of congress would develop the interstate commerce commission into a federal transportation commission for unified control of all forms of transportation. The time is too short to work out such a program this session, he said.

Pointing out that air, highway and water lines recently have come into increased competition with railroads, Mr. Roosevelt said "It is high time to deal with the nation's transportation as a single, unified problem."

State Park Camp

SAN CLEMENTE, June 7.—Constructed by some of the members, five benches were sent from this camp to the California Exposition at San Diego. These benches are to be stationed in front of some log cabins as part of the State Parks Emergency Conservation Work exhibit. The members who built these benches are Charles A. Rentschler, assistant leader, John Fallert, and Arthur C. Partridge and W. W. Damon. The work was supervised by Foreman Edward R. Bartlett.

Fanning Herron of the National Park Service, Washington, D. C., was a visitor at this camp Saturday, June 1. Herron was well pleased with the adobe construction and the appearance of the camp.

Rodent control at San Clemente State park is well under way. A crew under A. C. Katt, foreman, is making a game of it, each member trying to bag most of the gophers, squirrels, and what-have-you.

Credit is due to these members as they are really doing a fine job of work which requires patience and courage. Courage because of the proximity of snakes in the territory they are working. As the inter-sectional baseball league is about to enter its last round of play, the first two seeded sections, A and C, are still on top as prophesied, each having one lost to its credit and that defeat sustained by losing to one another. In all probability these two sections will engage in a little big world series. Awards will be given to the winners.

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, June 7.—(To the Editor of The Register): Two kinder amazing statements in the papers today. The President was supposed to be quoted as saying, "unless the Wagner bill and the Guffy Snyder bill passes, it might be necessary to call out the militia." The other was before the great Federation of Women's Clubs convention at Detroit. Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, who has represented the Federation in Hollywood, reported, "pictures have been cleaned up, and it was by the help of the solid middle classes, and not by the intelligentsia. Society classes are the dirtiest minded people in America." The social order received a couple of pretty tough blows from two different sources.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

The Cordova sent its first SOS at 9:40 p.m. Thursday.

STATE WATER PLAN UP TO ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today was requested to include the central valley, California irrigation project in his work-relief program.

The request was laid before him by Sens. Hiram Johnson, R., Cal., and William G. McAdoo, D., Cal., and the entire California congressional delegation. The project involves expenditures of $170,000,000 of which $30,000,000 would be spent the first year.

Johnson indicated that the president was in sympathy with the California proposal, but pointed out that more studies would be necessary before an opinion was given. That studies would include an analysis of men to be employed and other phases of the proposed improvement.

Model Home Plans Made By Realtors

The Santa Ana model home, which will be erected by the Realty Board to demonstrate the value of all latest improvements and stimulate home building under Title 2 of the Federal Housing Act, will contain three bedrooms and two baths, and will sell for around $5500, according to announcement made at today's Realty Board meeting held at James cafe.

A lot has been tentatively selected for the home construction project, according to W. F. Croddy, chairman of the building committee, and it is expected that the loan application will be in the hands of Federal Housing officials by June 15, the date upon which groundbreaking ceremonies will be held throughout the nation for 25,000 such model homes.

Croddy and his committee received the commendation of other Board members for their activities, and were authorized to proceed with further details of the construction plan, including selection of a foreman for the job to co-ordinate all activities, necessary to successful carrying out of the project.

Upon completion, it is expected the model home will be furnished completely and be open for the inspection of the public for 60 to 90 days before being sold.

The Santa Ana Board reiterated its support of the work of the National Association of Real Estate boards and its service to realtors of the nation, and instructed W. F. Croddy, state director, to make this stand known at the forthcoming conference in Los Angeles June 15 at which time, it is understood, an effort will be made to withdraw from the National association unless the dues of $5 per year per member are reduced.

Members of the Brea Woman's club told of plans for their club home. The La Habra club announced a carnival for July and a card party for June 25. LAMSON TRIAL DATE WILL BE SET TODAY

SAN JOSE, Calif., June 7.—(UP)—David Lamson, former Stanford campus leader, was called into court today to hear a date set for his third trial on charges of murder.

As the legal forces of defense and prosecution were assembling for the court session, it was predicted that Attorney Edwin McKenzie, Lamson's chief counsel, would seek a three-month delay in the trial.

McKenzie was expected to urge the pressure of his legal business in San Francisco as sufficient reason for the delay, which would keep Lamson in jail all summer.

Little talk was heard of previously reported plans of McKenzie to seek his client's discharge on bail pending the new trial.

Mrs. Zilda Oxarart, supervisor of the FHA project for the survey, reported to the committee that many contractors in Fullerton are so busy that they have asked not to be given any leads for the next few weeks. Therman Means, member of the committee, reported that in his case the same situation exists here.

Routine business occupied most of the time of the meeting, with discussions centering on the local FHA situation.

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WEST

(This is the first of two articles about Tom Morris, "fastest human" of the '30's.)

Sometimes I wonder if we haven't been unfair to our old time sports champions.

We beat our breasts and sing poems of praise about our Norman Pauls and our Lucian Wilsons and our Bill Hawkins and our Rudy Holmans, and never even save a thought for old Tom Morris, the greatest runner Santa Ana ever produced.

Santa Ana's first athletic ambassador, Morris was the Jesse Owens of his time. His career is almost legendary, and I have had an abiding curiosity to run down some facts about him. So I went up to interview C. W. Raney, who trained Morris for many of his races, and dug up an old series that Bart Macomber turned out about the early days of the sport. What they have to say is most intriguing.

The story of Tom Morris will run to some length but I believe it is entertaining enough to warrant the space. It will be concluded tomorrow.

When Morris first flashed into fame he was a farm hand in the Raney trained him. In those days, the best professional sprinters were a whimsical group that toured the country, masquerading as itinerant laborers. Like modern pool "hustlers," they remained in a small town a few days, then started arguments over foot-racing. Usually the outcome was a match race between the itinerant and local pride.

Under these circumstances, a "well-bred" named Campbell arrived in Santa Ana. Morris ran away from him. Other races followed and Morris' reputation spread. Forster and Harvey eventually sent him to the World's Fair at Chicago in 1893, and there Morris won the National championship. A "book," like the winter book on the Kentucky Derby, was always made on this classic and Forster and Harvey cleaned up handsomely on Morris. Thereafter, Morris became nationally known, made his living by his speed and at times his wits.

"Tobe" Raney has seen all the great sprinters of the past 50 years and he says Tom Morris was the best that ever lived. A beautifully-built fellow of 148 pounds, 5:7 in

'TOBE' RANEY TOM MORRIS

The world marvels at the speed of Jesse Owens, Metcalfe, Anderson. Forgotten by all but a few, even in Santa Ana where he lived and which he helped make known throughout the country 40 years ago, are the feats of Tom Morris, "fastest human" of the '30's. . . . Morris ran 100 yards in 8.6 seconds "hundreds of times," and his record of 7 flat for 75 yards has never been equaled to this day. . . . Once at the old Santa Ana racetrack on South Bristol street, Morris defeated the champion of Canada with $20,000 bet on the outcome. . . . Morris' remarkable leg development will be noted in the picture, taken here 40 years ago. C. W. ("Tobe") Raney of 1013 North Main street, himself a noted sprinter, discovered Morris and trained him for many of his races.

Gospel Swamp, southwest of Santa Ana. That district included Smeltzer, Wintersburg, Greenville and Talbert. Much of it was under water. In the fall of 1896, he was filling in his slack time by picking raisins at McPherson. It rained one day and the laborers, among them Raney, a professional runner in his odd moments, began a series of impromptu races. Raney was profoundly impressed by the fact that, try as he might, he could no more than hold his own with this raw lad he had never seen before.

Raney gave Morris instruction, lengthened his stride, taught him how to start and "gather." Morris went to a fair at Long Beach soon after this, entered an open race. The prize was $11 and Morris won 10 seconds fired the Gospel Swamp youth with new ambition. This was the beginning of an amazing career.

Cash Harvey, a Santa Ana rancher, and Don Marco Forster, son of an English gentleman and one of the daughters of the proud Pico family, became Morris' sponsors. They financed him, waged heavily on his races. The faithful "Tobe" height, Morris came out of his holes with unbelievable speed.

"He started as fast as that Japanese, Yoshioka, and ran as smoothly as Charley Borah," says Raney. "He was consistent at 93-5 seconds. He could do a 'hundred' in 9-4-5 anytime he wanted."

Morris won the National sweepstakes at the Chicago World's Fair in '93. His time was 9-4-5, and he was a yard in front of "Cuckoo" Collins.

Two years later, Morris was in Santa Ana suffering from an ailment considered totally disabling. Nevertheless, he was determined to run in the National sweepstakes, which were to be held at Brockton, Mass. It was a long ride across the country on the slow trains of 1895. Only two days off the train, sick as he was, Morris finished two inches behind Piper Donovan in 9:3, the first occasion in history that the century was run in such time under official conditions. Fifty thousand people saw that race.

(The rest of the Tom Morris story will be published Saturday.)

Tonight's Games
Long Beach at Santa Ana; Anaheim at Westminster; Huntington Beach at Olive.

In football they call 'em "breath-ers," but Manager Bill Cole doesn't see any humor in the situation. He tells you he wishes Santa Ana's game here tonight with Long Beach was a thing of the past.

The Stars are undefeated and are leading the National Night Ball league, and Long Beach hasn't won a game since 1932 and of course is trailing the field—but Cole says he is worried just the same.

Whether "Big Bill" fears Long Beach like Stagg used to "fear Purdue" is another matter, but he is backing up words with action just the same. He'll send Jim Coates, his ace pitcher, against the Admirals. The last time Santa Ana met Long Beach, Cole had his second string heaver, George Stevens, on the box and Stevens won rather handily despite an unsteady start.

Since then, Long Beach has added considerable strength, notably on the mound where cagy Earl Morrill has been doing some fine slinging. Last Friday, Morrill dropped a 2-1 decision at Westminster after holding the Admirals runless for eight innings and last Tuesday he lost a 2-1 nod to Huntington Beach after a dubious decision at first base in the ninth. Maybe Morrill will get over the hump against the Stars.

FEDERALS FOLDING UP?

Indicating an early break-up of the struggling Federal Night league, the Huntington Park club today had on file with President Walter Wentz an application to join immediately the National league.

Manager B. Wellington of Huntington Park added that, if the Nationals desired, he could bring in one more team to give the National division eight rather than seven members. Huntington Park has won five of its six games losing only to Hollywood.

Wentz said he would confer with managers individually to secure their reaction. Personally he doubted whether it would be advisable to admit another club before the conclusion of the first-half here July 2.

and "Eeny" Wilcox catching, the tailenders have a wide old battery that aggregates 67 years. Morrill is 36 and Wilcox 31, and they've been playing night ball since they were in short pants.

There is still an outside possibility that Long Beach will pull a last minute sensation and bring here none other than the home run kid himself, Louie Neva, but Manager Billy Feistner says he hasn't signed Neva yet.

Behind the Morrill-Wilcox battery Long Beach will have Mal Higgins at first base. Orr at second, Edmondson third, Korner short, and Sackett, Guy and Eddie Osborn in the outfield.

Santa Ana, Cole says, will use the same lineup and batting order that defeated Westminster which means: Daley, rf; Lacy, ss; Denney, lf; Smith, 2b; Ballard, cf; Preble, 1b; Oung, 3b; Koral, c; Coates, p.

Came-time is 8 o'clock, and Santa Ana will bat first because this is Long Beach's "home game," having been moved here for commercial purposes.

Mangrum divorced Mrs. Billy Mangrum in Los Angeles May 10, 1934, as the aftermath of a shooting affray in which both were slightly wounded. Mrs. Mangrum, it was charged, wounded the golfer in one arm and during the struggle over the gun, it discharged again and she was shot in one knee. His wife charged a "red-headed woman" had come between them. Mangrum denied the assertion and said his wife was intoxicated. He refused to testify against her and she was acquitted of charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

In one of the first matches in this event, Ed Holmes Jr. and Roy Langley defeated Bill Cubbon and Dee Whitney. Holmes and Langley had a best ball of 72, including a sparkling 33 on the outward nine.

Interesting first round matches pair the Pixley brothers, Osman and Walter, against Ben and George Osterman of El Toro. Dick Ewert, club champion, is playing with J. W. Beach, winner of the President's cup. They drew a bye this week.

Women's match play winners: Mrs. L. H. Robinson, one down; Mrs. Harry Bakke, five down; Mrs. L. J. Bushard, Mrs. B. W. McClure and Mrs. R. W. Weston, six down, Class B—Mrs. E. H. Gu-thier, two down; Mrs. W. F. Kist-inger, four down.

Dean Mild and Meek Now; Sorry for Row

ST. LOUIS, June 7.—(UP)—The rebel "Dizzy" Dean was a mild, meek, apologetic young man today when he returned here with the St. Louis Cardinals.

He was far from the bel-ligerent pitcher who was quoted as demanding a transfer after he was threatened with a $5000 fine during a near battle in Pittsburgh Tuesday.

"I've cooled down now," Dizzy said, "I'm sorry about the whole affair. I don't want to be sold or traded by the Cardinals."

Dean insisted, however, that he was "picked on" when he returned to the Cardinals dugout after apparently "letting down" during Tuesday's game.

"I'm willing to forget it, unless the boys continue to be sore at me and think they can't play behind me," he said. "If that's what it is then I'll tell Mr. Breardon to trade me."

S. A. MAT CARD IS COMPLETED; SIGN 4 EVENTS

Promoter Sam Sampson presents his first wrestling program at the Orange County Athletic club Monday night when "Man-Mountain" Dean, 317-pound bearded giant from Georgia, elects to even the score with burly Pat Fraley of Boston in a best two-out-of-three fall, one-hour battle.

Sampson is bringing to Santa Ana six other nationally famous heavyweights. Tony Felice, a bearded Italian who was so rough that he was ruled out of the International tourney, meets Matroos Kirilenko. Hans Steinkne, huge German, appears against Ev Kibbons, wrestling cowboy from Oklahoma, and "Rusty" Westcott, University of Hawaii athlete opens the show against "Tiger" Nelson.

Fresh from a thrilling win over Ernie Dusek and determined to annex Lou Daro's international tourney and the recognition as the king-pin of the heavyweights, Dean wants to write off a defeat handed him by Fraley two months ago at Long Beach.

Fraley is one of the few men able to boast a triumph over the bewhiskered giant. He not only pinned Dean but almost sent him to the hospital.

"Dean is just a big bum," asserts Fraley, "and I'll prove it Monday night."

"He was lucky," defends Dean, "and besides, the referee gave me the worst of it."

Sampson is prepared to handle a capacity crowd of 2,500. Tickets have been placed on sale throughout the county.

Reveal Mangrum Marriage; Best Man Best Golfer

PITTSBURGH, June 7.—(UP)—Romance entered the National Open golf tournament today when the marriage of Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles pro, was disclosed.

Mangrum's marriage to Margaret Gordon, daughter of an Oakland, Pa. undertaker, was a direct result of the present National Open. The two met after the Los Angeles golfer came here two months ago to practice.

They were married last Wednesday at Greensburg, Pa.

Alvin Kreuger, young Beloit, Wis. pro, who proved himself the best man of the National Open's first day by shooting a par-breaking 71, was Mangrum's best man at the wedding.

Mangrum divorced Mrs. Billy Mangrum in Los Angeles May 10, 1934, as the aftermath of a shooting affray in which both were slightly wounded. Mrs. Mangrum, it was charged, wounded the golfer in one arm and during the struggle over the gun, it discharged again and she was shot in one knee. His wife charged a "red-headed woman" had come between them. Mangrum denied the assertion and said his wife was intoxicated. He refused to testify against her and she was acquitted of charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

LANDIS MUM ABOUT EX-CONVICT'S CASE

CHICAGO, June 7.—(UP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, declined today to comment on the case of Alphonse Pitte, the athlete recently released from Sing Sing prison who was denied a job in the minors.

Landis is confined to his hotel with a severe cold.

TEXAS BOXERS SHELLACKED BY 'HOME TALENT'

Matchmaker Ben Steffler was in Los Angeles today searching for a suitable 135-pound opponent to send into the Orange County Athletic club's pit against Chester Rudy, Catholic lightweight champion of the United States, who will main-event next Thursday's boxing program.

Steffler and Promoter Sam Sampson are anxious to maintain the standard of the show which last night lured another near capacity throng to their highway punch-bowl to see Young (Lupe) LeMon of Fullerton do everything but knock out "Dandy" Dick Lincoln in the fourth-round fight. Lincoln, a Forth Worth, Tex. "champion" was a sour looking dandy at the end.

Texan Down Thrice

LeMon pummeled Lincoln at will, winning every round decisively. The Texan was down three times in the second and on the verge of a knockout half a dozen times. Lincoln never could solve LeMon's two-fisted attack—usually a left jab to the right side of the abdomen followed by a sweeping right to the left side of the head—and spent his time vainly dodging the leathery deluge. The decision was simple for the judges and Referee Steve Nyland.

Anthony Alkins, sidekicker of Lincoln from Fort Worth, also received a lesson in California fighting from Westminster's Jesse Sanchez, sometimes known as "Tomahawk." Alkins had height and reach on Sanchez but his punching was so powerless that Sanchez soon found he had nothing to fear. Sanchez plowed right into the lean Texan. Sanchez won the first two rounds by a wide margin and earned a shade in the last two.

Lopez Easy Winner

Spidery Leo Lopez of El Modena won all the way from Dan Moreno in the semi-windup. Moreno was on his bicycle.

"Chief" Robbins stopped Bill Matthis in the second, a towel floating out of Bill's corner after he had been down several times.

Outweighed ten pounds, Paul Brown was lucky to last four rounds with Ralph Gordy who "carried" the Santa Ana through the last heat.

Doyle Richards came fast in the last two rounds to decision "Buck" Durbin who had a shade in the first two. Tony Torrez kayoed Benny Moreno in two, and Tony Levavio decisioned Merle Mesa in the curtain-raiser which was the best fight of the evening.

TENNIS

The four seeded favorites—Douglas Imhoff and Hamilton Moody of Woodrow Wilson, Bobby Peacock of Tustin and Muryl Hallman of Santa Ana—were to fight it out this afternoon for the singles championship in the eighth annual Orange High school invitational tennis tournament.

They were the only ones left after two rounds of play yesterday. The favorites were all extended in the quarter-finals, Imhoff being forced to two hard sets by Carl Aubrey of Santa Ana. Imhoff was to meet Peacock today and Hallman was to go against Moody. The latter has been Class C champion of Southern California for the past two years.

Results:
Second round—Imhoff (Woodrow Wilson) d. Rodden (Anaheim) 6-0, 6-1; Aubrey (Santa Ana) d. Pickett (Long Beach) 2-6, 6-2, 12-10; Peacock (Tustin) d. Harbottle (Orange) 6-3, 6-3; Lane (Woodrow Wilson) d. Blake-more (Fresno) 6-1, 6-1; Hallman (Santa Ana) d. Frank (Fullerton) 6-4, 6-4; Beck (Anaheim) d. Webb (Corona) 6-1, 6-4; Moody (Woodrow Wilson) d. Brock (Long Beach) 6-2, 6-2; Moncrieff (Alhambra) d. Staugaard (Montebello) 6-3, 6-3.

Quarter-finals—Imhoff d. Aubrey 7-5, 6-4; Peacock d. Lane 3-6, 6-2, 6-2; Hallman d. Beck 4-6, 6-2, 6-2; Moody Moncrieff, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Brooklyn After Dean; Red Sox Want Foxx

NEW YORK, June 7.—(UP)—With the deadline of major league trading only eight days away, several managers today were trying desperately to swing deals to bolster their clubs.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Red Sox, which have slipped into second division the past few days after leading their respective leagues early in the season, were negotiating for two of the game's brightest stars.

The Dodgers want "Dizzy" Dean and the Red Sox covet Jimmy Foxx.

Strained relations existing between Dean and other members of the Cardinals, including Manager Frankie Frisch, may cause Sam Breardon, St. Louis owner, to part with his temperamental pitching ace. Brooklyn is said to have offered $75,000 cash for Dean, but this is just a feeler to determine whether "Dizzy" is really for sale or trade.

Eddie Collins, business manager of the Red Sox, is reported to have offered $100,000 for Foxx, and is willing to toss in First Baseman "Babe" Dahlgren.

Reports from St. Louis that the New York Giants are in the market for Dean brought a denial from Manager Bill Terry.

Fullerton and Brea will go undefeated into Monday's first-quarter struggle at Brea for the Orange County Night league leadership.

They won their sixth successive games last night, Brea doubling Irvine in a 3-0 pitcher's duel at Irvine and Fullerton thrashing Placentia, 8-6, in a free-hitting test at Fullerton.

Irvine Montgomery, Brea's ace pitcher, held Irvine to six singles, one less than Ray Hodgson of the Beapricers allowed. Roberts' homer put Brea ahead in the first and the champions added runs in the third and eighth.

Olive won its first game of the season when it nosed out San Juan Capistrano, 4-2. Ray Ortiz, Anaheim schoolboy, hurled good ball for the Junior Packers who made their winning runs in the eighth on a walk and three Capistrano errors.

Huntington Beach scored three in the second, five in the third and one in the fourth to defeat Garden Grove, 9-3. Lyle Morse then replaced Kasaka on the knoll for Garden Grove and stopped the Oilers' rampage, fanning 12 in the last five innings. Hapes and Estep hit homers.

GOOD GARDENING

By Mrs. H. Cardoza Sloan, Corona Del Mar
Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

THE CAMPANULAS

Once when I was a very little girl on a summer visit to grandmother's, Aunt Jane took me with her to have tea with Miss Kate. Miss Kate was a woman set apart, in my young fancy, but a cruel fate which had smitten her husband as a young bride, her husband while on a journey to a far city had sickened and died. When Miss Kate read the telegram announcing his death, she shrieked and swooned. And never from that day—as I had often heard my elders recount, had she been known to smile.

I sat on a footstool close to the protecting folds of Aunt Jane's best black silk, my heart quivering with shyness and pity in the presence of one upon whom destiny had laid so heavy a hand. Miss Kate was tall and slender and dark, with lovely eyes, grave and sweet. She did not smile (I hardly took my eyes from her face) and though her manner was warm and friendly—she showed me pictures and a box of odd sea shells, and gave me drink from a fragile cup—I could not forget the shriek and the swoon.

When we stepped from the little parlor into the sunny sweetness of the garden, it seemed altogether fitting that among the flowers crowding against the white picket fence should rise a green stalk hung with white bells, a wonderful flower such as I had never seen, a flower, it seemed to me, created for that garden alone, symbolizing the white purity and unflinching loyalty of the spirit of Miss Kate. "Canterbury Bells," someone said casually, and it was almost too perfect—that so lovely a flower should have so lovely a name.

Since that day when the Canterbury bells swung their white beauty before my young eyes, I have particularly loved the campanulas. I have yet to know any member of this numerous family—and there are a goodly company of the campanulas—which does not have its own special charm.

No flowers offer more to the gardener. From the chimney bell-flower (campanula pyramidalis) which raises spikes six feet tall, hung all summer with lovely blue or white flowers, to the dainty dwarf varieties whose trailing stems beaded with exquisite blossoms gem the rock garden, including the lovely Canterbury bells which give to the flower border, as one of their admirers says "a marvelous effect that falls just enough short of being spectacular," wherever the campanulas are used they are utterly satisfactory and no plant can fill their place in the garden.

Nor are they difficult to grow; they will adapt themselves to varying degrees of sun or shade, they will flourish in ordinarily good garden soil, moderately rich, moderately moist. While the smaller varieties appreciate more shade than the larger, the latter will not sulk if these are not supplied. The taller varieties will produce finer and larger flowers if fed freely with manure. The small varieties do not require even that attention.

In the garden they combine beautifully with other favorites, being particularly harmonious with delphinium, thalictrum, perennials, sweet william, columbine, scabiosa, gladiolus, lilies and with other varieties of the campanulas.

Most of the campanulas are hardy perennials, some half dozen are annuals, and quite a number are biennials. The Canterbury bells in their different forms, single, double, cup and saucer, and in their clear, beautiful white, blue and pink, are biennials. We should all be grateful to the horticulturists for producing an annual strain of the Canterbury bell, so that it is now possible to have these lovely flowers in bloom within six months of seed sowing.

Among the taller growing varieties the peach bells probably stand next to the Canterbury bells in favor. The peach bells get their name from the dark green, peach-like leaves which form a matted growth from which rise the tall stems with loosely hanging bells. There are several varieties of the peach bells, "Telham Beauty" is one of the most grown, with very large bells of a beautiful china blue or white. "Pride of Exmouth" is another fine variety, with enormous spikes of clear blue double flowers.

Campanula latifolia macrantha is a showy border species, with large drooping bells of fine satiny texture in shades of lilac and deep violet on stems three to four feet high. It does well in either light shade or full sun. Less known among the taller varieties are C. alliarifolia, very desirable, with tall spikes of creamy-white bells; and C. amabilis, with handsome dark blue flowers. All these are hardy perennials, growing around 2 1/2 to 3 feet tall, making a splendid showing in the flower borders.

Less showy, but even more endearing, are the smaller types, growing around a foot or less tall, suitable for grouping in colonies in the border or for the rock garden. Of these campanula carpatia is the most familiar. This charming little harebell makes a neat tuft of leaves with flowers held erect on slim, wiry stems. It blooms all summer and is unsurpassed as an edging plant. The variety commonly grown is a violet-blue, but there is a white variety, and "Ditton Blue" has large, flatish flowers of deep blue. In my garden I have two new varieties of carpatia this year—"Riverside blue" and "White Star." I am eager to see them bloom.

C. barbata is a small plant with silvery-blue bells on 12-inch stalks, very desirable for the rock garden. There is a hybrid form of carpatia and an edging dwarf growing species, said to be much more prolific in its bloom than carpatia.

I have never seen it, but it is especially recommended as a fine edging or rock garden plant. The name is "Cullinmore," and the flowers are shades of blue, borne all summer.

An old favorite of English gardeners is C. glomerata. The variety dahurica, growing about a foot and a half high, with rich deep violet flower heads is very showy, very effective, and easy to grow. The English catalogues list an improved form under the name "Superba," which is said to be a great improvement over dahurica, in which case it must be very fine indeed.

Campanula rotundifolia is the "Blue Bell of Scotland." This is a plant of slender, graceful habit, with pendant bells. A native of our Pacific northwest is C. rotundifolia olynchica, larger and more beautiful than the foregoing; a compact plant with bells of deep lavender-blue, blooming over a long period.

It is when we get into the diminutive plants growing only two or three inches high, and the lovely trailing varieties, that we give ourselves over to the campanulas, heart and soul. There is something so brave and sweet about these trim little plants with their attractive small foliage, seemingly so impervious to pests, their cheerful spread growth, their abundant and lovely flowers.

I have blooming in my garden now C. gargarica, which is truly described as an "elegant" plant. It has the most exquisite refinement of leaf, of form, of starchy blue blossom. C. muralis is also in bloom, another charming dwarf plant, with purple-blue bells. This is deservedly one of the most popular among the rock garden campanulas, and is equally as good in the border edging.

C. turbinata is dwarf, but not trailing, with erect cup-like flowers and most interesting growth. I have both the blue and white varieties and can hardly wait to see them bloom. But they cannot be lovelier than the little campanula to which I have completely lost my heart, C. pusilla. This is just about the sweetest little thing you ever laid eyes on. With shining green leaves and pale blue drooping bell flowers, the shape of lily of the valley bells, C. saxifraga is another little love, and quite rare, deep blue flowers on trailing stems.

Then, of course, there is C. isophylla, white, and its blue variety, mayil. Lovely things, of larger habit than the other trailers we have mentioned, and fairly well known. A friend who shares my fondness for campanula has just given me C. poscharyana, which, despite its forbidding name is called one of the best for the rock garden. It is trailing, though not of the smallest type, and on the far-reaching prostrate stems the buds are just beginning to unfold into large, grey-like starry flowers.

I often look with longing on the pages of an English catalogue which lists 135 varieties of campanulas. Figuring that I know 35 of these—doubtless an over-liberal estimate—at the rate of five new ones a year, it would take me 20 years to acquaint myself with all this goodly company of the campanulas—well, while there's life, there's hope.

SCHOOL GRADUATES GUESTS AT DINNER

BREA, June 7.—Graduates of the Brea-Clinda Union High school and the Fullerton Junior college, associated with the Christian church, were recent dinner guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Frank V. Stipp. A four-course dinner was served. Favors were clothes-pin dolls dressed in caps and gowns and place cards were diplomas in scrambled letters.

WALTON LEAGUE HEARS REPORTS ON CONVENTION

J. E. Rymer, of Anaheim, national vice president of the Izaak Walton League of America, and National Director George W. Sloop, spoke last night at the regular meeting of the local chapter in Fisher park.

Rymer reported the Chicago convention, saying: "The tone of the convention was one of optimism and cooperation among the delegates, and resulted in the passage of 26 resolutions pertaining to conservation. The Walton league is the largest and most powerful of all conservation groups and its programs command respect in all government branches. The convention was addressed at different times by 13 appointees of the administration."

The duck season closing will be up to the biological survey and will not be acted upon until the results of their nationwide survey of migratory waterfowl is completed.

No action has been taken by the state fish and game commission on the closing of the quail season but the opinion was expressed that it would be open this year as usual are plentiful.

The agricultural commission at Washington is endeavoring to have the various agencies spreading poison for squirrels, use only men experienced in the handling of the poison grain. Ctrychne is fatal to doves, but rarely kills quail, unless followed by water. Thalium is fatal to all birds. Much damage has been done in Orange and other Southern counties by inexperienced men handling this work and by some few ranch owners who do not care, it was reported.

Reports of commercial fishing boats manned in most cases by foreigners who surround schools of yellowtail of 250 to 300 tons, dragging these schools through the water while taking their cargo limits of perhaps 15 tons before releasing their nets which action results in the death of thousands of fish, were given by eyewitnesses.

The yellowtail and barracuda run this year is the best in many years. These fish are running close to shore, one school of yellowtail required 30 minutes to pass a boat anchored offshore.

The Anaheim chapter, through Mr. Sloop extended an invitation to attend their meeting of June 13 when a scientist said to be the greatest authority on fish in the United States will explain why fish are more plentiful some seasons than others.

The Fullerton chapter extends an invitation to all Waltonians to attend a barbecue supper in their cabin in Hillcrest park June 12. Each Waltonian is asked to bring a friend.

Stories in STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

PASSED up by Columbus and other navigators for more than a century, Barbados, easternmost island of the West Indies, became the possession of Great Britain in 1605, or 1625—historians aren't quite agreed—and has been under British rule since. It was when the British vessel "Olive," or "Olive Blossom," as some call it, stopped there that some of its crew landed, set up a cross, and inscribed on a tree the legend, "James, K of E and this Island."

But the name goes back probably to the Portuguese, who were believed to have stopped there long before and named the island "Las Barbadas," the bearded, from the shaggy view its fig trees gave them at first. The stamp shown here illustrated the "Olive," or "Olive Blossom," flanked by the island's peculiar hanging vines whose branches take root when they touch the ground.

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

By DAN THOMAS, Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 7. — Now that color film is coming into use more and more, experts are working overtime to devise a new type of make-up. That now in use has proven wholly unsuited to Technicolor requirements. Most of the experimenting so far has been done on Miriam Hopkins and Frances Dee who play the leads in "Becky Sharp," the first feature length production to utilize the new three-color Technicolor process.

JUST TO REMIND YOU
As it already has been about eight months since Norma Shearer made her last picture, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," and several more months will have to elapse before she can step before the motion picture camera again because of her expected baby, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is making plans for re-releasing "Smilin' Through." That was one of Norma's best films and its re-appearance will serve to keep her in the public eye, anyway.

EXPECT DAMAGE TO FRUIT CROP IN EUROPE TO HELP SALE OF VALENCIAS HERE

Fruit and vegetable crops all the way from England to northern Italy have been damaged by a cold wave which settled over Europe on May 15 and persisted until May 20, according to word received today by Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg from his Washington headquarters of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The condition in Europe should stimulate the demand for California valencias and other fruits, Wahlberg said.

Freezing weather in the important fruit growing regions of Kent, Essex, Wiltshire, Cambridgeshire, Herefordshire, Lincolnshire, and Somersetshire in England caused losses ranging from various fruits from 25 to 100 per cent, the report said. Apples, pears, and strawberries were hit especially hard. Serious but less severe damage is reported for currants, growing gooseberries, and plums. Growing vegetable crops were also heavily damaged. Temperatures in some of the important growing regions in England during the past week were as low as 14 degrees Fahrenheit, according to Agricultural Attache E. A. Foley in London.

Losses Seem High

Unofficial estimates for the county of Kent, the most important fruit section in England, places losses at 100 per cent for strawberries and gooseberries, 25 per cent for plums, and 25 to 100 per cent for apples. The Severn river district also reports heavy damages. The most important fruit region in this district, estimates losses in from 50 to 75 per cent for cider and dessert apples. The famous cider apple section in southwest England, including Somerset and Cornwall, also suffered heavy damage.

Damage to fruit crops in France from cold weather during the past week cannot be estimated as yet, it was reported. A preliminary check, however, indicates that damage to fruit trees and vines in some localities was serious, according to Agricultural Attache Nelson at Paris. The cold wave and snow was experienced in Southern Austria and Germany and even so far south as Genoa and Venice, Italy.

The countries of northwestern Europe, including the United Kingdom, generally produce only a little more than half of their fruit requirements and for that reason are always important outlets for American fresh and canned fruits. A large diminution in their crops, such as seems to have resulted from the present frost, should stimulate the demand for California valencias and other fruits, Wahlberg stated.

P-T. A. GROUP COMMENTS ON NEW PICTURES

Criticisms and reviews of new motion pictures by the California Congress of Parents and Teachers were released today through Mrs. M. W. Hollingsworth, motion picture chairman of the local P-T. A.

About "Break of Hearts," the new R.K.O. picture starring Katherine Hepburn, Charles Boyer, John Beal and Jean Herscholt, the congress said: "Aptly named is this romance of two musicians, a young composer and her philanthropic conductor husband. Unusual in the interpretation given by Katherine Hepburn and Charles Boyer and the interesting introduction of symphonic music. Adults, excellent; 14-18, possible; 8-14, no interest."

Concerning "The Flame Within," M.G.M. picture with Ann Harding, Herbert Marshall, Maureen O'Sullivan and Henry Stephenson, the report was "Conventional triangle which involves two young neurotic and a skillful woman psychiatrist who has attempted to solve their problems. However, more than an excellent cast and clever direction is needed to make this somber fare of mental ills palatable for the popular diet. Adults, interesting; 8-18, no."

In reviewing "Chinatown Squad," Universal picture with Lyle Talbot, Valerie Hobson, Hugh O'Connell, Andy Devine and Leslie Fenton, the congress said: "Here we have a police officer turn bus driver, who does some volunteer sleuthing, captures the elusive criminal and becomes reinstated at headquarters. A hard working hero cannot make this other than a boring, artificial picture. Adults, tiresome; 14-18, fair; 8-14, harmless."

The congress said of "Doubting Thomas," new Fox picture starring Will Rogers, Billie Burke and Alison Skipworth: "A small town theatrical so inflates the ego of a charming wife and mother that the home is nearly wrecked, but trust Will Rogers, as the astute husband, to adroitly bring everyone to his senses. A good, swift comedy with a fine cast and smooth direction, wherein you will see Rogers in a crooning bit. Adults, excellent; 14-18, very good; 8-14, good."

About "The Nitwits," R.K.O. picture with Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, Fred Keating, and Evelyn Brent, the congress said: "Two cigar clerks become involved in the murder of a none too scrupulous phone publisher, but eventually aid the police in solving the mystery. A typical Wheeler and Woolsey comedy which the general public will find entertaining. Family."

A good many women must have this trouble with their hair after having had a shampoo and wave set: the wave looks lovely until combed out at home, then it takes on a shaggy appearance and is unmanageable for several days. I've come to the conclusion—and proved it in my own case—that the gooey wave-set and the long period of drying heat required to set the wave will prove bad medicine for certain grades of fine hair. A clever operator put me wise to using a tonic lotion, marked for use in eradicating dandruff, etc. This tonic permits setting the wave easily, dries in one-third the time, and leaves the hair soft and gleaming.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Cocunut Loaf Cake

1 pound butter or margarine.

1 pound sugar (2 cups).

8 eggs.

1 1/2 pound package cake flour.

1/2 teaspoon baking powder.

1/2 pound package cocoanut.

—Contributed.

Cut the butter into a warm bowl and cream until waxy (use your hands for this). Add the sugar and cream again until the sugar is well softened. The eggs are added unbeaten, one at a time, well beaten after adding. When all the eggs are in, beat the mixture a full 3 minutes. The poundage in flour will work out at 9 cups of flour, measured after sifting. To eight cups add the baking powder and sift twice again. Add by degrees, beating well, then if you think the batter will stand the extra cup, put it in, but remember, the eggs have thickening power as well as flour. Fold in the cocoanut, not the long fibre grade, but the desiccated sugared kind. Line a large or two small pans with buttered paper (put corn meal under paper on bottom) and bake the cake 1 1/2 hours in a 350 oven. Do not ice this cake; and keep a few days before cutting.

Fresh Red Currant Pie

2 cups ripe red currants.

1 1/4 cups sugar.

1 rounded tablespoon flour.

2 egg yolks beaten with 2 tablespoons water.

Pastry to line pan.

Crush the currants, mix with sugar, flour and egg yolks beaten with water. Slip the pastry shell into a hot oven for 5 minutes, then fill with currant filling and put back to finish baking. When done spread a 2-egg-white meringue over

NEW BOOKS PUBLIC LIBRARY

By VERA RAMSEY

What is it that sets musicians apart from the rest of mankind? What peculiar fascination is it that keeps a Bach chorus singing until two a. m. or that turns stern bankers into frantic fiddlers? What is the magic in the blood that converts one man into an organist, a second into a pianist, a third into a cellist, yet leaves the fourth stone-deaf to music in any form? Catherine Drinker Bowen discusses these things in "Friends and Fiddlers." Catherine Drinker Bowen is a Philadelphian with music in her veins. The youngest of a large and scientifically minded family, she took to music as naturally as a duck takes to water. Into this irresistibly gay book she has crammed the joy, comedy, and desperation of a musical life. With the skill of a biographer she sums up the human equation in music with insatiable enthusiasm. She discourses on amateur quartets, fiddlers, wild-eyed cellists, wives who play violas and children who bang the box. The chapter discussing the children and music should be read by every parent.

There have been scores of learned treatises on music and hundreds of musical biographies. Never before has such an attempt as this been made to explain the brotherhood of musicians and the fervent place which music occupies in so many homes. This is a book which musicians will chortle over, a book which the layman will read with dawning delight.

The period described in "Carson the Statesman" by Ian Colvin is the most exciting in the long and colorful life of Lord Carson.

We read the stirring story of Carson's leadership of the Irish Unionist Party. He had many struggles with Asquith and John Redmond on the Home Rule question. We read of his brilliant speeches before the House of Lords, the raising of the Ulster Army of 100,000 men, the gun running and the mutiny. Then there is the Marconi affair, in which Carson acted as counsel for his political opponents. However, Carson's work leading and intensifying Ulster's resistance to the separatist plans of the Irish Nationalists, forms the core of this book.

Lord Carson, lawyer, orator and fighter would never surrender a principle for a victory. The shot fired at Sarajevo brought temporary unity between English and Irish to meet a common foe. What would have happened had that shot never been fired, leads to exciting surmises as the volume ends with the outbreak of the war.

The author has been assisted by Lord Carson who turned numerous documents over to him and discussed with him the events of this period. Mr. Colvin acknowledged Lord Carson's patience in "leaving to the biographer the freedom of his own opinions, even when he disagrees with them."

General Smedley Butler gave thirty-three years to military service. During this time he was one hundred and twenty-one times under fire, twice wounded and won more medals than any other soldier ever received in our history. All of this gives force to his book, "War is a Racket."

This is a hard-hitting book by a hard-hitting soldier. Since his withdrawal from actual duty he has devoted himself to exposing his life-long profession of war as a racket. It is, he says, a racket in that the few profit and the many pay. Because of this he has become an ardent campaigner against war.

Although he is very earnestly set against war, he remains realistic enough to see that war cannot easily be eradicated. In this book he presents a practical three-point program for the control of future wars. The first point has to do with the conscription of wealth and industry as well as men, the second with a vote by the men who would have to do the fighting as to entering a war, and the third would restrict naval and air maneuvers during peace time.

Thus he does more than expose and denounce the racket of war. His program for the control of war is based on his own experience, his own patriotism, and his own knowledge.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN - ILLUSTRATIONS BY KING

Up, up, the shoe went! What a ride! Wee Goldy very shortly cried, "Our good old friend, the rubber man, will soon be out of view."

"He's waving to us from the ground." Then Coppy quickly turned around and said, "Oh, I can see him. We should all salute him, too!"

"Off came the hats of everyone. A lot of waving then was done. At last fair Goldy said, "We cannot see him any more."

"We may as well get comfy and enjoy the ride until we land. Oh, I'd give anything if I knew just what was in store."

"Why think about it?" Duncy snapped. "I'll bet you, once more we are trapped. I will not be surprised if we all land down in the sea."

"I wish that I'd stayed on the ground, where I know I'd be safe and sound. These trips, all full of mystery, do not appeal to me."

"Oh, there you go! Your same old line," said Windy. "Why, this trip is fine. Perhaps this shoe can sail the sea, as well as fly through the air."

"I've never known a lad who raves as much as you. I see some waves below us. Now, I s'pose you'll have another sudden scare."

... ..

The ship dropped down and rode the sea, and 'twas a funny sight to see poor Duncy close his eyes, because he was a scared young lad.

Real shortly, up they went again. The shoe sped up a bit, and then it settled in a valley. One small gnome cried, "Wheel! I'm glad!"

"This is a spot that I know well, so we will stay here for a spell. Nearby there are some ten pins, and we'll have a little game."

"Hop from the shoe, now, everyone, and join in on a lot of fun."

The wee gnomes soon were bowling. Dotty cried, "I'm glad we came."

(The gnomes send the ten pins flying in the next story.)

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

PRICE FIXERS NOW FACE PROSECUTION

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(UP)—Attorney General Homer S. Cummings today indicated the government might be forced by law to prosecute business concerns continuing price fixing under unofficial codes of fair competition.

Announcing that he had ordered district attorneys to drop court action in 411 national recovery act cases, Cummings said that "we will be confronted with another situation" if business continues to fix prices without benefit of the recovery act.

With attention again turning to anti-trust cases and numerous industries planning to continue their codes in operation without sanction of law, Cummings said:

"This is one of the real difficulties confronting us."

YESTERDAY'S DECISIONS AND THE PRO-RATE ACT

The decision on the pro-rate law, or, we might say, the two decisions, enjoining the enforcement of this law to lemons and milk, are very significant court actions.

The pro-rate law in California came about as a direct result of the failure of the leaders, in co-operative marketing, to get all the producers of the fruit, particularly oranges, voluntarily into their organization.

The small percentage of independents who held out, while not large in the aggregate, was sufficiently large to break down price control through shipment to the Eastern markets, in excess of the ability of the market to absorb the fruit.

The defense of the independents, from a financial point of view, was of course that they received more for their total shipments of oranges than they would have received from part of their shipments. But they never did seem to appreciate the fact that this would not have been true, had the price not been greatly sustained by the unity of those who were trying to regulate shipments.

There is one phase of the orange situation which is not entirely on "all fours" with the lemons. California is the only state which produces lemons. Hence a law, regulating this shipment of lemons, would regulate actually the number of lemons available and thereby instantly come under the law declaring illegal all acts in restraint of trade or tending to create a monopoly.

This is not true of oranges. Florida, Arizona and Texas produce oranges. To be sure, Valencia oranges, the summer oranges, are produced in California almost exclusively.

Under the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, together with the pro-rate agreement, there is no question but that they have been designed to accomplish the very things which the court has held illegal in regard to lemons. But if there is no attempt to marshal these states together, it may be possible for California to "go it alone" on a pro-rate on oranges, because other states can send oranges in, but in such a case as this, California would be hurt and not helped.

Judge Wilson, however, held that the production of lemons, and he undoubtedly would say the same in regard to the production of oranges, is not in itself interstate commerce. But he held "that a statute that has the effect of regulating and burdening interstate commerce, by controlling and limiting the supply of necessary commodities on which the entire nation is dependent, violates both the federal constitution and the anti-trust law."

If this decision will be upheld by the upper court, it is so broad in its character and application, that it unquestionably would apply to oranges as well as to lemons, and indeed, the language itself does not go to the commodity discussed, but to the character of the law. Because if the law violates both the constitution and the anti-trust law, it cannot be applicable to anything.

Whether or not a decision would support the orange pro-rate agreement, certainly the value of the orange pro-rate program has been sufficiently well demonstrated to appeal to all producers of oranges to voluntarily carry out that which the law contemplated.

We can all reason that all legislation calculated to aid the farmer, in the regulation of output and the determination of price, which can possibly be enacted, should be done. But of course the rancher is a part of the nation and the aim is "the good of all" or "the good of the many," and the courts will consider it necessarily from the standpoint of the nation as a whole.

THE SLOW-MOVING CONGRESS

It is probable that congress will not adjourn for a couple of months, but if it is to adjourn sooner, business will have to be expedited. As contrasted with the first session of the previous congress, this session has gone along very slowly. It has been in session now for nearly five months, and some of the most important measures presented by the administration are still being debated or are in committee.

The bonus bill is out of the way. The Home Owners' Loan corporation appropriation of $1,750,000,000 has just passed and been signed by the President. More or less routine legislation has passed.

But some of the most important measures still await action, either by committees, or by the house or senate. Among these are the banking bill, the holding company bill and the Wagner bill.

Then, most important of all to the President, is the social security measure. This measure marks the beginning of a new movement in the United States—a movement which long ago has been rooted in most European states.

Were it not that congress has the habit of rushing through many important measures in the last days of a session, it would be easy to conclude that many of the measures, which the President has called "must" bills, are as good as dead. Yet the growing opposition to the administration policies, and the more positive opposition of big business, make the passing of some of these measures very doubtful.

All of which is clear evidence that we are on the way to recovery. There have been some setbacks.

But these mark every recovery period. There is more money being spent by the people.

More cash payments are being made for new automobiles, so it is reported, than for many years past. It is only in very bad and discouraging times that important legislation goes through congress with celerity.

SWITZERLAND'S PLEBISCITE

The people of Switzerland last Sunday voted on two questions. The first was on the devaluation of the franc.

The second was on the question of authorizing the federal government to stabilize wages and guarantee sufficient subsistence to all the people. Both changes proposed were rejected by the voters by a majority of 150,000 in a total vote of about a million.

Switzerland has been hard hit by the depression in other countries. Its important tourist trade has been languishing ever since 1929.

Like all other countries, its export trade has suffered from the tariff barriers raised by other countries. Yet in the face of it all, it adheres to its established policies. It means to pay its bills and to continue in its conservative ways.

Only three countries of the world have remained on the gold standard. They have neither devalued their currency, nor have they placed an embargo on the free movement of gold.

These three countries are Switzerland, France and Holland. Our own country is on the gold standard, but has devalued the dollar and has regulated the movement of gold. Italy, Germany and Poland are linked with gold, but regulate its free flow.

France devalued the franc from 19 cents to somewhat less than four cents after the war. Switzerland and Holland are the only two countries which have neither devalued nor placed an embargo on gold.

Had the vote of Switzerland gone the other way, it would have had serious consequences for France; and Holland would probably have been forced to protect its gold supply. We are too far from the scene to understand what lies behind the vote in Switzerland.

Everything seemed to point to a different result. At the present time Switzerland is the key to the gold situation. It may be that French influence was strong enough to sway the Swiss voters.

ANOTHER MYTH DESTROYED

The bagpipe has always been associated with a Scotchman. The figure of the "braw" Scotchman in his kilt and tam, creating weird melody from his bagpipe, has become historic. And now we are told that the bagpipe is as old as history, and that the Scotchman simply imported it from the outside.

The bagpipe was popular among the Persians, Greeks and Romans. The latter brought it to the British Isles at the beginning of the Christian era, and the Scotchman made it his own and gave it romance.

Emerson said that next to the man who invents something is the man who puts it to the best use. That is the role the Scotchman has played with the bagpipe.

Other people have played the bagpipe, and other people may play it in the future. But it will never be dissociated from the Scotchman. He has made it his own.

And most of us will never think of it except as we have heard it in Scottish glens and among Scottish hills. An Italian with a bagpipe does not look natural, any more than a Scotchman does eating spaghetti.

We care not where the bagpipe originated. To us it is inseparably linked with the Scotchman in his plaids.

The Race Horse Pope

San Francisco Chronicle

Since there were five Sassanid kings of Persia named Bahram, it is a little difficult to tell for which the Aga Khan named his 1935 Derby winner. A good guess might be that it was for the fifth and last, the hero of Persian legend called Bahram Gor, the "wild ass," for his strength and courage. That is appropriate for a Derby winner.

At any rate, the horse was named for an ancestor, for the Aga Khan traces his pedigree back through Persian royalty far past the Bahrams. And this Mohammedan prince is himself some shakes of a man. Born to his rank and wealth as the pope of the Ismailiah sect of the Moslems, the present Aga Khan has not been content to sink into soft ease. His has been an active life as a many-sided man.

The newspaper reading world knows him only as a sportsman, owner of a remarkable racing stable. But he is a scholar, both in Oriental and Occidental lore, an authority on the law and theology of Islam, the author of important books and articles on modern history and politics.

He is a statesman of great breadth and the leader of the Indian Moslems in the struggle over the future of India. He was the first president of the All India League and headed the British Indian delegation to the Round Table Conference in London. It was chiefly due to him that the proclamation of a holy war by the Sultan when Turkey entered the World War failed to rouse Islam against the allies. The Aga Khan's loyal ten million Ismailis—who are scattered from India to Morocco—steadied the Moslem world outside of Turkey and for the first time in history the raising of the green flag by the Sultan was ignored by his fellow religionists.

The Aga Khan has received many honors from governments, universities and learned societies. Though solely a religious prince without a foot of territory, he rates a salute of eleven guns. In 1923 the Council of State for India recommended him for the Nobel peace prize.

Such is this horse racing Moslem pope.

How Plebiscites Grow

New York Times

The Austrian Chancellor answers Hitler's demand for a plebiscite by saying that a plebiscite has already been taken in Austria. That was last July, when the Nazi putsch in which Chancellor Dollfus was murdered was quickly snuffed out. The argument is not altogether casuistry. Hitler should be the last to deny that something more than the unfettered judgment of the voter goes into the making of plebiscite majorities.

Hitler boasted in his last Reichstag speech that the German people had chosen him sole deputy by 93,000,000 votes. This was the number of votes he received in the last referendum. Yet in the election of March 4, 1933, which brought him into power, he received only 17,000,000 votes, or about 40 per cent of the total number cast. How, in the space of a few months, did 17,000,000 votes become 93,000,000 votes, and 40 per cent become 90 per cent? By the simple process of using violence to terrorize and suppress all opposition. Where freedom has ceased to exist, plebiscites are always on the side of the police.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A WORD OF CRITICISM

Here's a boost for the birds in the tree-tops
Or anywhere else they are found;
At the coming of Spring
They merrily sing
And fill all the air with their sound.
Moreover, they war upon insects,
Beetles and aphids and cut-worms and slugs,
Destroying each year
By their useful career
Many hundreds of billions of bugs.

But for them would the husbandman perish,
For the earth would be barren and sere;
The wheat would not sprout
Nor the corn stalks thrust out
Nor the oats and the rye reappear.
No petals would burst on the rose-bush,
No violets gleam by the creeks;
Were the birds not on hand
To protect all the land
With their busy and sharp little beaks.

But I wish they would keep better hours,
They might, for example, arise
And work on the lawn
A bit later than dawn
And after the sun lights the skies.
I find them most pleasing companions
While building their nests in the Spring;
Except for the fact
That they're lacking in tact;
I simply can't sleep while they sing.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "I WAS GREATLY IMPRESSED BY THAT OLD SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY." SAID THE BUM, "WHILE HITCH-HIKING THROUGH DIXIE."

We were starting to eat supper, being liver and onions in pop's honor, being the 2nd time this week, and ma said, Now Willyum, go ahead and enjoy yourself in the 7th heaven while you may, because it's time to call a serious halt. I mean this is the last liver and onions for quite a while, so you'd better get used to the idea and regurgitate your life accordingly, she said.

That's bad news, I must say, yee gods, pop said.

And he started to look at his liver and onions sad instead of keeping on eating it, and ma said, Well don't let it get cold, there's no use adding insult to injury, and for lands sake don't look so forlorn. A person mite think your best friend had deserted you and then came back and robbed you in the night, she said.

I do feel something on that order, as a matter of fact, pop said. When I think that this is the last liver and onions that will pass my famished lips for an indefinite period, I feel like a shipwrecked sailor with his last precious ounce of water. I scarcely dare touch it, because I feel that when it fades before my eyes and crumbles before my teeth the last ray of hope is gone, he said, and ma said, There's plenty more here in the platter, so don't be silly. Eat it, Willyum, you know how I hate to see other people's food getting cold, she said.

But each mouthful will remind me of the shortness of life and the inexorable passing of all its blessings, how can I? pop said, and ma said, O my goodness all right, the world hasn't quite come to an end, we'll have it again pretty soon.

That's too indefinite, do you mean tomorrow? pop said, and ma said, Don't be absurd, I promise it to you within a week.

A gleam of life appears in the heavens, the angry seas subside, all is not lost, pop said, and he ate 2 more helpings with a happy expression.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files
25 Years Ago Today

JUNE 7, 1910

County Clerk W. B. Williams received the new hunters' licenses from the state fish and game commission, and placed them on sale with the first two issued to William E. Clement of Orange and Harry Winslow. The licenses were from July 1, 1910 to July 1, 1911.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

A TIME FOR STEADY NERVES

I talked last night with a man of large interests. He is essentially a conservative. He has been critical of much of the New Deal. But like myself he has been in agreement with its broad purposes announced at the outset. And he has, even when most critical of detailed provisions, been in constant cooperation with the administration on important advisory groups.

He has held with a persistent faith that the dangerously wrong-headed details of the New Deal would wash out in time and that its socially sound purposes would be worked into sound legislation.

He had hopes of much headway in this direction in the year ahead.

The supreme court decision which directly junked the NRA and, by implication, threw so much of the New Deal into the ashcan came to him as a shock. I found him decidedly jittery last night.

Frankly he is in no condition of mind to make a steady contribution to the several important bodies of business and political leaders to which he is at the moment serving as adviser.

There is no avoiding the fact that the supreme court decision has faced us with what could easily be a very dangerous interlude.

In this interlude important decisions must be made alike by business leadership and by political leadership.

It is a time for steady nerves. Nothing is to be gained by a continual swinging of the pendulum between insensitive reaction and irresponsible utopianism.

Economic America must now be adapted to the technologic age with its lavish productive powers, and the adaptation must be made responsibly in terms of the basis American tradition of private enterprise and political liberty.

HUMMING NOISES

I know of nothing quite so irritating, so certain to rouse wrath and indignation against the offender as humming and whistling through the teeth. And when such a creature stands behind one's chair and lets himself go in a wholehearted performance, it is too much. Human nature can stand just so much and after that it is anybody's fight.

Children like to hum and drum and whistle in the most annoying fashion. They can keep it up endlessly. You suffer for the first five minutes in the hope that something will draw the attention of the murderer of peace. Nothing does. For the next five minutes you hope he will get out of breath. He does nothing of the sort. He has surprising resources.

I have known him to run up and down a scale and on the way down pick up enough breath to whistle home and back again. When at last endurance can no further go you turn on him and demolish him utterly, he looks at you in open-eyed amazement.

"Well, you needn't get so sore about it, need you? I was only whistling. Gee, can't a fellow even whistle in this house?"

"No, he can't. Try the garage."

"Yeah, and be chased out because Hans only likes Swedish tunes."

Grown people suffer torments under the infliction of these noises that children enjoy so much. The only thing to do is to send them to some wide open space and tell them to take it out on the air. At least the birds can fly off to where he isn't, and the small creatures don't seem to mind. They just go away from there to somewhere else.

It was not about our own suffering, bad as it is, that I wanted to write. It is about the children who cannot bear these noises which their sturdier brothers and sisters make. There are children whose nerves quiver at the sound of fingers drawn over glass, a droning whistle through set teeth drives them frantic. A steady rat-tat-a-tat with hard finger ends on a table makes them tremble. An incessant humming drives them to tears.

Rudy stood by the edge of Rita's chair, just behind her ear. He hummed "Goodbye Sweetheart" somewhere back in his throat, did something with his left heel and drummed with his right hand on the little table whose top was hollow. He was having a lovely time sounding like an orchestra.

"Mother!" cried Rita, and her voice rose to a screech. "Will you please make Rudy stop? I've asked him and asked him—"

"Is that you, Rudy? I thought it was a band outside and I was just going to send you out to tell them to go away. Go outdoors if you want to make such noises. Rita, don't be so fussy about such things. You make too much of trifles."

My sympathy is with Rita. Nobody has the right to make such noises in the room where there is another person. Nobody has the right to stand behind another's chair and hum, or chew gum, or whistle through his teeth, or make noises in his throat as though he were about to choke and didn't like it. All such noises are to be carried out to the vacant lot beyond the last stone wall and left there. They are inhuman.
